The holy saints are great who make a connection with Waheguru, and I, an immoral, have been salvaged in the shelter of the Guru. 1

Even though the human mind wanders in many different ways (directions), it comes under control in the shelter of the Guru, just like a fisherman who casts his hook and traps fish to bring them under his control. 2. Waheguru's saints are noble and kind to others; all one's filth of mind is washed away in their company. Just like soap cleanses clothes, the sin (filth) of one's haumein is washed away in their company. 3.

Those, who have good fortune prewritten on their forehead by Waheguru, drop on Guru's Feet (obey His Teachings), and find salvation. I have acquired the destroyer of poverty and of all troubles, Waheguru, by reciting his Naam, and have found salvation, oh Nanak. 4.1.

Now my mind is as humble (ego-free) as the dust of the feet of the holy saints. Pause. I was completely unmindful and unaware, and had no idea of the high transcendence of Waheguru and His limits (that He is limitless), but the Guru has enlightened me to be alert in my mind (to keep Waheguru in mind all the time). The kind to the humble, Waheguru, has been highly benevolent to me because of which, I recite His Naam now all the time. 1. If I am fortunate enough to get connected with the holy saints who are dear to Waheguru, I will cut out my heart (brain) to present to them (surrender my wisdom) because they purify your filthy mind, and you get connected with Waheguru in their shelter. 2. Waheguru's devotees are recognized as (spiritually) superior (leaders) in the world because even the stone-hearted people get imbued in Waheguru's love in their company. One cannot describe the greatness of the holy saints as Waheguru has made them spiritually superior. 3. You are greater than the greatest, and are the source of the Naam wealth, oh Lord. We are the traders in Your Naam, and You give us the wealth of the Naam. Please be kind to Nanak so that I may load (acquire) the merchandise of Your Naam, oh Waheguru. 4.2.

The benevolent Waheguru was kind to me that I began to recite His Naam. With the hope of meeting with Waheguru, my mind became zestful, and I was blessed to bloom. 1.

My Lord ignited the fire of love for Him in my heart so much so that now I remember Him with every breath and every bite of food. Now, all my bonds with Maya have been broken, and all my sins have been burnt away in a flash of time. 2.

What power do we worms have, and what good deeds are we capable of performing? It is Waheguru's benevolence that he protects the fools and the unwise like me. We are heavy like a stone with the load of our sins, but the kind Waheguru ferries us across the world-sea in the company of His holy saints. 3.

The whole world, which Waheguru has created, is superior to me, the ignoble, who is full of vices. All my ignoble qualities were erased in the shelter of the Guru, and Waheguru connected me with Him, oh Nanak. 4.3.

Waheguru appears in many different forms and colours and is present, hidden, in every heart. He appears in the mind of a devotee in the company of the holy saints when the doors of his mind, which were shut for Him due to the attractions of Maya, open up (for Waheguru's Naam to enter). 1.

The holy saints, who enshrine Waheguru's Naam with love in their hearts, enjoy great respect. One connects with Waheguru in the shelter of the holy saints, and his mind feels overjoyed, like a cow who becomes very happy to see her calf. 2.

Waheguru is visibly present in the hearts of the holy saints, who lead a life of high morality. The fragrance of Waheguru's Naam swells in their heart, and the foul smell of worldly attractions goes away from their mind. 3.

You create Your own saints; please protect me as well, against the attacks of Maya by making me Your own, oh Waheguru. I am a devotee of Waheguru, and He is my friend, my brother, mother, father, and all my close relatives, oh Nanak. 4.4.

Aoukhudh = medicine. Putit = immoral. Pooneet(i) = purified. 4.

MEANING: Recite Waheguru's Naam with full concentration, oh my mind. Waheguru's Naam resides in the fort-like body (mind) of the man, which is besieged by the strong attractions of Maya (which make it very difficult to have access to Waheguru). However, this fort can be conquered with Guru's Shabad. Pause. The man is misled by the perishable attractions of the world, and engrossed in the love of his sons and his wife, he wanders around (works hard) all his life to acquire those luxuries for them. But he does not realize that, like the short-lived shade of a tree, the wall of his body can collapse at any time. 1.

Waheguru's holy saints, who lead a life of high morality, are dearer to me than my own life, because it is in their company that one brings faith in Waheguru. When one's mind is engaged in His Naam, the immortal Waheguru, which is present in every heart, appears in his heart and his mind is dyed with Waheguru's love. 2.

Waheguru's noble devotees are very kind, and one's mind is dyed in Waheguru's love in their company. The colour of Waheguru's love is so fast (deep) that it never fades or goes away, and the devotee gets connected with Waheguru with his deep love for Him. 3.

We are big sinners and have committed many sins, but the Guru destroys them completely. He gives Waheguru's Naam in the devotee's mouth (on the tongue to recite) as the medication which purifies even the immoral, oh Nanak. 4.5.

Pause. I am a big sinner, and loaded with sins, and am heavy like a rock with the load, but I pray to the Lord, who is fearless and above the effects of Maya, to protect me from further attacks of Maya. I am engrossed in lust, rage, sensual pleasures, and greed, but pray to Waheguru that He ferries me across the world-sea just like heavy iron floats on water when put on a boat of wood. 1.

You are the great (living) Power, inaccessible, and incomprehensible; we could not find Your limits (despite our best efforts), oh Waheguru. You are further and further; You are endless, and only You know Your vastness (magnanimity), oh, the Lord of the world. 2.

One should recite the Naam (sing praise) of the invisible, and incomprehensible Lord in the company of the holy saints, and follow the path as taught by the Guru. One should listen to the praise of the indescribable Waheguru in the holy gathering where His virtues are discussed. 3. pray to my Waheguru, who is the Lord and the supporter of the world, to protect me (against the attacks of Maya). I am a slave of Waheguru's slaves (devotees), and pray to Him to keep me with Him (in His shelter) all the time, oh Nanak. 4.6.

Brahmans perform their required six rituals and make it a big deal, while the Sidh yogis and the yogis believe that they can please Waheguru by growing long tangled and matted hair,

It is with the Advice of the Guru, and the company of the holy saints, that the spiritual doors of the mind, which are shut by the misconceptions of Maya, are thrown open (for enlightenment). 1.

The individual, who accumulates wealth, plans for poisonous sensual pleasures; but one attains blissfulness only when he recites Waheguru's Naam in the company of the Guru or that of the holy saints. Just like burnt iron gets converted into gold by the touch of the elixir stone, an immoral person gets purified in the company of the holy saints when he recites Waheguru's Naam with Guru's Shabad. 1. They deal in perishables by their nature, have no societal shame, and are always intoxicated in their ego as a result of which they burn in the fire of their rage. Those who ignore Waheguru and get attached to worldly things are like the people who drop the immortalizing Waheguru's Naam-Amrit on the ground. MEANING: Worship Waheguru by reciting His Naam with Satguru's Shabad in His shelter, and you will acquire the unfathomable Waheguru in your heart (He will appear there). With Satguru's benevolence, you will conquer the whole world (all the worldly desires). Pause.
I have searched for many different kinds of worship, but only that worship is accepted by Waheguru that He likes (the recitation of His Naam). MEANING: Your Naam, which is like all the nine treasures of the earth, salvages the whole world, oh, my dear Waheguru. You show in many, many beautiful forms, oh Waheguru. Why should the man be imbued with the love of other things? One can see the holy Sight of Waheguru with one's eyes by the grace of the Guru. But only that individual can have Waheguru's Sight (or connect with the Guru) who has such a fortune prewritten on his forehead. Pause.
I wish to serve at the feet of the Guru (with full reverence and dedication), and wish for the dust of His Feet (His Shabad) which purifies the mind, and is like taking dips in all the 68 holy places to remove the filth (dip at holy places may remove the filth of the body, but NOT of the mind). One should remember Waheguru with every breath, and never turn his face away from Him. One may have wealth worth millions, but nothing accompanies him after death (except for Waheguru's Naam). It is only His Naam which comes to help at the end. 1. Giving up love for everything else, one should have a single wish – and that should be Waheguru's Naam. How can I sing praise of Your countess virtues when I do not have the ability to express my gratitude even for a single favour of Yours? Just like the fish loves water, I have a great desire to have a sight of Waheguru's saints, wish to offer my mind to them, and wish to humbly serve them. MEANING: Waheguru is present in countless forms in every living being, from a small ant to a huge elephant. Pause. Different people try to reach such an omnipresent Waheguru through different approaches, including self-restraint, following the principles of their faiths, and undertaking pilgrimage to holy places, including the river, Ganga. Some others perform ritualistic worship in different meditation positions (yoga), while others paint religious symbols on the six parts of their bodies, anoint their foreheads, and perform rituals. But they cannot have Waheguru's Sight without coming to the shelter of the holy saints. 1.

They try many ways to control their senses with the sheer persistence of their mind, and stand on their heads. But they suffer from their selfishness and ego, which are serious diseases, and their separation from Waheguru never goes away. They burn in the fire of their lust, rage, and worldly desires. MEANING: When I sang Waheguru's praise in the shelter of the holy saints, my thirst for all worldly desires was fully satisfied, and the five demons easily ran away (without any special effort on my part). Pause. I do not know how to express my gratitude to Waheguru for the degree of benevolence He has shown me (that I am fully contented); the only thing I can say is that I can sacrifice my life anytime for Him. 1.
People wonder what kind of dwelling Waheguru has where He sits down to plan to look after His living beings. (But without worrying about such ideas) I believe the first thing the man should do is to recite Waheguru's Naam with love and respect by dropping on the feet of the Guru (obeying His Advice). Countless slaves (devotees) of Waheguru sing His praise, but only those get connected with Him whom He likes. Waheguru is present everywhere, and He, and He alone, rules the universe, oh Nanak. 2.1.37.

MEANING: The debaters debate the religious issues all the time, while the yogis meditate, and the knowledgeable of different religious faiths roam on the earth, taking pride in showing off their knowledge (but cannot realize Waheguru by such approaches). Pause.

All such people, and all other foolish people, suffer from their selfishness and ego. No matter where they go, they face spiritual death everywhere. 1.

They need to get rid of their ego; otherwise, spiritual death is always close to them (follows them). Nanak advises such foolish people to recite Waheguru's Naam, because the invaluable human life is wasted away without His Naam. 2.5.50.

Sookhaavaiygo = gives comfort. 1. Kudhaavaiygo = makes one say. Purakhotum = the supreme Waheguru. Chit(u) = mind. 2. Druvviya = melted; softened. Bheena = imbued. Nij Ghur(i) = in its own place (stability). Teh = there. Unhut Dhooni = the sound of Divine music. Baajeh(i) = plays; is heard. Neejhur Dhaar = the stream of a fall. Chooaavaiygo = drops. 3. Til Til = every moment. Naamo = only Naam. Bhaavaiy = is liked. Triptaavaiygo = will find contentment. 4. Kunik = gold. Kungna = bracelets; ornaments. Kaapur(u) = clothes. Bhaant(i) = of many kinds. Pheek Phikaanay = lustreless. Phir(i) Aavaiygo = will take rebirths. 5. Putul = purdah; wall. Bhaari = heavy; strong. Ghoomunghayr = in whirlpool. Ghoolaavaiygo = suffers; struggles. Bikaar = vices. Munoor = burnt (brittle) iron. Dootur(u) = which is very tough to swim across (the world-sea). 6. Bhuou = fear of God. Baiyraag(u) = detachment from worldly attractions. Bhuyya = become. Bohith = ship;boat. Khayvut = boatman. Bhaytiyaiy = is connected with. 7. Ugiyan(i) = in ignorance. Suvaaliya = put to sleep; unawareness. Jugaavaigo = awakened. Bhaanaiy = Will. Chulaavaiygo = runs life.

MEANING: Remember (recite) Waheguru's Naam, and you will feel blissful, oh my mind. The more you remember Him, the more blissful you will feel, and will merge into Him by serving Satguru (obeying His Advice). Pause.

Long for the company of the holy saints every moment, where you will enjoy blissfulness by reciting Waheguru's Naam. All other tastes (enjoyments) will run away from your mind, and nothing other than Waheguru's Naam will provide any comfort to you. 1.

With Guru's Advice, one begins to find Waheguru very sweet, and the Guru makes you sing the sweet praise of Waheguru. Satguru's Bani is a manifestation of the Supreme Waheguru, and one gets attached to the Guru's Bani (Shabad). 2.

My mind has softened to listen to the Gurbani, and, imbued with its love, it has come to stabilize (has quit wandering). Now a constant stream of Waheguru's Naam-water is dropping on my mind, and I feel as if sweet Divine music is playing in my ears. 3.

My mind is singing Waheguru's Naam every moment with Guru's Advice (His Shabad), and because of the recitation of the Naam, I get absorbed in Waheguru. Now, I listen to, and like (love) only the Naam, and find contentment. 4. The man wears expensive clothes and many different ornaments, but all such comforts are lustreless without Waheguru's Naam; engrossed in Maya, the man continues to be born and to die again, and again. 5.

The curtain of Maya, which keeps the man ignorant about Waheguru, is very strong, and one's mind is caught in misbeliefs; and like a house in a whirlpool, he cannot escape from that, and suffers a lot. Loaded with vices and sins, he becomes very heavy and cannot swim across the world-sea, which is impossible to swim across without Waheguru's Naam. 6.

However, respectful fear of Waheguru and detachment from worldly attractions act like the boat, and the Shabad of the Guru acts like the boatman to ferry one across the world-sea, and one gets connected with Waheguru and absorbed in Him with His Naam. 7.

The man enjoys sleep (stays unaware) because of his lack of spiritual knowledge, and is awakened when he acquires it. But it is always the Will of Waheguru that some people remain asleep, while others are awakened, as He runs the universe according to His own Will, oh Nanak. 8.1.

Word Meaning: Turaavaiygo = will ferry across; salvage. Gut(i) = high spiritual state. Dhuroo and Prehlad = the two child devotees of Waheguru (See “INRODUCTION” for detail). Pause. Lugaavaiygo = will attach to. 1. Mul(u) = filth. Leh(i) Jaavaiygo = will be washed away. Kasht = wood. Paavaiygo = acquire. 2. Satsungut(i) = gathering of holy saints. Rus(u) = sweet taste. Kerm = rituals. Abhimani = egoist. Cheekurr(u) = mud. 3. Rukhvaaray = protector; guard. Oopdaysh(i) = Teachings. 4. Niv(i) Ruhhiyaiy = bow to; show respect. Ful = reward. Goon = virtues. Ninda = vilification. Doosht = evil; wicked. Hernakhsh = the evil father of Prehlad, who tried to kill his son many times because Prehlad would not worship him; he rather worshipped God. Puch(i) = suffer badly. 5. Kumul Poot(u) = Brahma, the son of the lotus flower which was growing out of the navel of Vishnu. Meen Poot(u) = the sage Biyaasa who is believed to have been born out of a fish, Muchhoduri. Tup Taapun = because of their worship of Waheguru. Bhermun Bherm(u) =

the biggest misbelief. Chookaavaiygo = will end. 6. Jaatun Jaat(i) = the highest caste. Mut Bhermou = do not be misled. Sook = a Brahman sage (of highest caste). Janak = a Khatri (of lower caste than the Brahmans) who was a rajah and the father-in-law of Rama. Pugeen = at the feet of (with respect). Jootthun Jootth = the filthiest remnants of food. Munooa = mind. Doolaavaiygo = will not let his mind weaken. Junuk Junuk = the ancestors of Junuk. Singhaasun(i) = on the throne. Nuou Mooni = nine hemits (sages). Dhoor(i) = dust of feet. Daasun Daas = slave of slaves. Kuraavaiygo = make. 8.

MEANING: Recite Waheguru's Naam, which will salvage you, oh my mind. Whoever recites Waheguru's Naam attains the high spiritual state, and like the two child-devotees of Waheguru - Dhuroo and Prehlad - merges with Him. Pause.
Please, be kind to me, because it is only with Your benevolence that one gets attached to Your Naam (and begins to recite it), oh Waheguru. Please connect me with Satguru with Your benevolence, so that I may begin to recite Your Naam in His shelter. 1.
I have accumulated filth of selfishness and ego over the past many lives, which can be washed away in the company of Satguru (or that of the holy saints). As a load of heavy iron boarded on a wooden boat can float across, a heavily sinful person can also swim across the sea of Maya, and realize Waheguru with Guru's Shabad. 2.
You will enjoy the sweetness of Waheguru's Naam in the company of the holy saints (where only Waheguru's praise is sung), oh man. The individual, who performs rituals without the shelter of the holy saints, is an egoist who expels clean water (noble qualities) and fills the sack of his heart with mud (filth). 3. Waheguru is the guard of His devotees, and His devotees find His Naam to be very sweet. They earn respect every moment with Waheguru's Naam, and merge into Him with Guru's Teachings. 4.
One should always show respect to Waheguru's devotees, because one reaps the reward of noble qualities by showing them respect. But the evil, who vilify Waheguru's devotees, suffer badly like Henakhsh, the father of Prehlad. 5. Brahma, who was born out of the lotus flower growing in the navel of Vishnu, and the sage Biyaasa, who is believed to have been born out of a fish (Muchhoduri), are being worshipped (even though they were born in unnatural ways) simply because they worshipped Waheguru. So, worship all the devotees of Waheguru, whereby even your biggest misbeliefs will be cleared. 6.
Do not be misled by the misbelief of the highest caste; Sage Sook, a Brahman (the highest caste), worshipped Waheguru at the feet (in the shelter) of Rajah Janak, who was a Kshatriya (a caste which is lower than the Brahmans). When Sook went to see Janak, a feast was going on, and Sook had to wait outside. When the feast was over, all the filthy leaf-plates were dumped on Sook, who was standing behind the wall. But Sook did not allow his mind to be resentful even for a short moment. 7.
When Janak occupied the throne of his ancestors, the nine well-known Brahman sages put the dust of his feet on their foreheads. (So, high caste has no significance). Please, be kind to Nanak, so that I become a slave of Your slaves, oh Waheguru. 8.2.

Saasun(i) = while breathing (alive). Nihsaasun(i) = without breathing (while physically dead). Bul(i) = spiritual power. Boojhaiy = understands. Tau = then. Smaavaiygo = is absorbed. 6. Daata = provider. Bhaag-heen = unfortunate. Bhaavaiygo = liked by. Vayla = time; opportunity. Haath(i) Na Aavaiy = cannot be recalled. Pertaapaiy = while suffering. Puchhutaavaiygo = repents. 7. Jo Ko = whoever. Bhulaa = wellbeing. Lorraiy = looking for. Dheh(i) Dheh(i) = kneel before. Bhusm = ash; dust of the Feet. 8.3.

MEANING: With the Advice of the Guru, my mind sings Waheguru's Virtues (praise) while enjoying its sweetness. I wish I had millions of tongues to recite Waheguru's Naam with each of them millions of times. Pause.
It is believed that the thousand-headed serpent, Sheshnaag, which forms Vishnu's bed, recites Waheguru's Naam to no end. Waheguru is unfathomable and is further and further (is inaccessible), but one should not be daunted by His inaccessibility. One's mind quits wavering and comes to focus on Waheguru with the Advice of the Guru. 1.

Those who recite Waheguru's Naam are noble (are approved by Him), and they enjoy blissfulness. Remember Bider, the low-caste young son of a maid, who was hugged by Krishan JI (simply because he was a humble devotee of Waheguru). 2.
Wood is born from water (water is the father of wood), which is why water holds wood to its chest (protects it) and keeps it afloat on its surface. Similarly, Waheguru, the father of all humans, endows His devotees with noble qualities as His innate responsibility (and ferries them across the world-sea). 3. With the load of our sins and vices, we are very heavy like a rock or iron, but the shelter of the Guru is the boat which ferries us, the heavy sinners, across the world-sea. Remember, the low-caste weaver (Kabir Sahib), who found salvation in the company of the holy saints because they (the holy saints) love Waheguru; (so, seek shelter of the holy saints, oh my friend). 4.
Recite Waheguru's Naam whether you are standing still, resting, working, or are on a journey. Satguru's Words are His Huqam, which show you the path to emancipation. 5.
When one recites Waheguru's Naam with every breath, he acquires spiritual strength, and recites His Naam with his soul even after his physical death. When one comprehends the cause of his ego* with Guru's Advice, he merges into Waheguru by reciting His Naam. 6.
Satguru is the source of life of human beings, but the unfortunate do not like Him. They repent when they suffer greatly (without the Guru's guidance), but then they cannot recall that opportunity (in human form). 7. If someone seeks his own wellbeing, he has to kneel before the Guru (surrender to Him). I beg the Lord to be kind to me so that I may put the dust of the feet of the Guru on my face (serve Him with full dedication), oh Nanak. 8.3.

NOTE: In Assa Dee Vaar, Guru Angad Dev Ji professes that the solution to eradicate one's ego lies in the ego itself.

Sloak Mehla 2 (466): One's selfishness and his ego are a long disease, and the cure for this disease lies in the ego itself. If one realizes his true selfishness (emancipation), then with the benevolence of Waheguru, he works hard to act on Guru's Advice (and gets rid of his ego).

World Meaning: Rung(i) Raata = imbued in love. Bhaiy = respectful fear for Waheguru Bhaiy = traas = worldly fears. Nirmul = purified. Laag(i) = attachment. Pause. Baiyraagi = deatched from worldly attractions. Nicket(i) = near. Ghur(i) = heart. Punk = dust of feet. Dhiyaavaiygo = will recite (Naam). 1. Doobidha = indecisiveness. MEANING: With Guru’s Advice, my mind has been attached to Waheguru, and imbued in His love, it is singing His praise now. With respectful fear of Waheguru in my mind, all my worldly fears and worries are gone, and my mind has been purified. Pause.

The devotees, who are imbued with Waheguru’s love, are always detached from worldly attractions, and Waheguru, which is always close to everybody, appears in their mind. I will survive spiritually if I get the dust of their feet (an opportunity to humbly serve them), which Waheguru, with His benevolence, will make available for me. 1.

The man is attracted to worldly attractions, and with his greed for them, he is always indecisive. But with his mind blank of love for Waheguru, he cannot be imbued with His love. However, if he is fortunate enough to connect with the Guru, his mind will be turned away from the attractions of Maya and imbued with the Guru's love for Waheguru, thereby acquiring a new spiritual life. 2. All ten human senses (five natural and five implementers) keep pushing the man toward enjoyment, and, overpowered by the three effects of Maya, the human mind never finds peace and keeps wavering. However, with Satguru’s Advice, the mind comes under control, and the devotee attains emancipation. 3.

Only Waheguru is present everywhere, and everybody will be absorbed in Him at the end. The single Waheguru appears in many different forms, and runs the whole universe with His Huqam (Command). 4.

The devotees of the Guru recognize the “One” Waheguru and comprehend Him in the shelter of the Guru. Guru’s devotees reach Waheguru’s dwelling (which becomes their own) as they merge into Him, and feel as if Divine music is playing in their mind. 5.

Guru’s devotees realize that Waheguru alone has created all the living beings and the whole world, and they earn respect for their firm belief in Waheguru. Nobody can reach Waheguru’s Residence without the Guru, and they continue to suffer in the birth-death cycle. 6.

The individual, who has been separated from the dear Waheguru for many lives, is connected with the Guru through His benevolence. He enjoys great bliss upon meeting the Guru, and his mind blossoms when his evil thoughts are purified. 7.
I beg Waheguru, which is the soul of the world, to be kind to me, and infuse love for Him in my mind. Satguru is the one who connects one with Waheguru, and Waheguru puts His devotees in Satguru's shelter, oh Nanak. 8.4.

Word Meaning: Gurmut(i) Chaal = lifestyle as per Guru's Advice. Chulaavaiygo = follow the path. Maigul(u) = elephant. Must(u) = intoxicated. Tul(i) = beneath. Koonday = ankus (the sharp weapon to control the elephant). Drirraavaiygo = reinforces. Pause. Chultau = the wavering (fickle) (mind). Deh Dis(i) = in all the directions. Raakhaiy = protects. Liv = deep meditation; love. Chooaavaiygo = squeezes dropwise. 1. Bisiur = snakes. Bis(u) = Bikh = poison. Poorun = fully. Guroorr = a mantra believed to be the antidote for snake poison. Bhooyung = snake. Jhaar(i) = shake off. 2. Sooaan = dog. Nugur = world; man's mind. Sublaa = powerful. Kudhaavaiygo = kick out. Sat(u) = service to mankind. Suntokh(u) = contentment. Dherm = high morality. Aan(i) = brought. Raakhay = placed.

Hur(i) Nugri = Waheguru's city (gathering of holy saints). 3. Punkuj Moh = mud of worldly attachments. Nighurt = sinks deeper and deeper. Kaadh(i) = pull out. Traah(i) Traah(i) = save me, save me. Haatheen = with His hands. 4. Soopnuntar(i) = in dreams. Baaji = drama. Khayl = game. Laaha = benefit. Paiyndha = given robe of honour. 5. Koyilay = coal. Jumaavaiygo = plants; seeds. Dookhdaayi = painful. Khuvlaavaiygo = feeds. 6. Sunchou = accumulate. Khurch = journey expenses.Put(i) = respect. Toat(i) = shortage. 7. Dookh Daalud(u) = misery of (spiritual) poverty. Bhunj (i) by destroying. Smaavaiygo = merges into Waheguru. 8.5.

MEANING: Follow the path of life as advised by the Guru, oh my mind. Like the mahout, who controls the intoxicated elephant by hitting him on the head with an ankus, man's fickle (fast wavering) mind comes under control by repeatedly reciting (and obeying) the Guru's Shabad. Pause.

Man's fickle mind, which wanders in all the ten directions, is stabilized in the shelter of the Guru when he focuses his mind on Waheguru with the grace of the Guru. Satguru implants His Shabad (in Waheguru's praise) in the devotee's mind, and he begins to recite Waheguru's Amrit-like sweet Naam with his mouth (and feels as if Amit is dripping in his mouth). 1.

The snakelike worldly attractions are full of poison (which kills the spirituality of man); such poison is destroyed by the Guru's Shabad on the devotee's tongue, which acts as the antidote to this poison. The snakelike Maya does not even go near such a devotee, and he focuses his mind on Waheguru's Naam by shaking off all poisons of Maya. 2.

The doglike greed is powerful in the human mind (forces the mind to be greedy), but the Guru kicks the greed out of the devotee's mind instantly. The Guru places the noble qualities like service to mankind, contentment, and high morality in the holy gathering (which becomes the source of such virtues), and the devotee sings Waheguru's praise in such holy gatherings. 3.

The man slips deeper and deeper in the mud of worldly attractions, but the Guru pulls His devotees out of that mud. The devotees, who come to the Guru's shelter begging for protection against the attacks of Maya, are pulled out from the world-sea when He extends His hand. 4. The whole world is dreaming the drama of Maya, and plays its games (dances at its hands, and loses spirituality); but those who follow the Guru's Advice, earn huge spiritual benefit (wealth), and are honoured in Waheguru's Court. 5.

Those who are egoists and perform deeds which boost their ego are planting coals (which burn their spirituality), but when death comes, it becomes very painful because they reap the rewards of only that crop which they had planted. 6.

Accumulate the wealth of Naam, which will serve as your journey expenses (accompanies you) to Waheguru's Court, where you will be honoured, oh, the wise men. Waheguru's Naam is such a wealth which never runs out, whether you spend it yourself or share it with others. 7. However, one can acquire the Naam-wealth in his heart only in the shelter of the Guru. With the grace of the Guru, one's suffering of his poverty in spirituality is eradicated, and he gets absorbed in Waheguru's Naam (merges into Him), oh Nanak. 8.5.

Word Meaning: Hirn = gold. Paarus = elixir (touch) stone. Pause. Ful Paavaiygo = reaps the rewards. Paiyj = honour. 1. Buchan = words; Shabad. Neeko = beautiful; supreme; source of emancipation. Ambreek = a raja who was a devotee of God, and was saved from the curse of some egoist sages. Amrapud = state of immortality. Bhaayi = liked. Soodha = Amrit. Maarug(u) = Punth(u) = path. 3. Thaapay = established; given the high spiritual state. Raakhun Kuou = to protect. Sur(u) = arrow. Sundhaiy = shoots at. Oolto = boomerangs. 4. Sur(u) = pool (of Naam Amrit). Durgah = Waheguru's court. Maan(u) = respect. 5. Naad = sound; knowledge. Bayd(u) = the Veda. Perchaiy = Teachings. Roop(u) = form; image. Saakut = the worshipper of Maya. Baymookh(i) = non-believer. Bhermaavaiygo = takes through many life forms. Loabh Lehr = whim of greed. Sooaan = dog. Bikh(u) = poison. Kurung(i) = carcass; dead body of an animal. 7. Taaruk(u) = ship. 8.

MEANING: Like a piece of iron gets converted into gold when touched with an elixir stone, and acquires the properties of the elixir stone. You will also acquire the virtues of Satguru in His company, when you recite Waheguru's Naam in His shelter, oh my mind. Pause.

The great (holy) soul, Satguru, is like the touchstone; whoever comes to his shelter will reap similar rewards (acquire His virtues). Like Prehlad, who found salvation by the teachings of the Guru, Satguru protects the honour of His devotees. 1.

Satguru's Words are holy, and one acquires the Amrit-like Naam of Waheguru with His Words. When one recites Satguru's Shabad, he attains the state of immortality, as did Rajah Ambreek. 2. I loved the shelter of Satguru, and recited His Shabad as the source of immortality (leading to union with Waheguru). Kind to the humble, Satguru shows the devotee the right path of life, which leads to union with Waheguru. 3.

The devotees, who take Satguru's shelter (surrender to Him), are (spiritually) exalted, and Waheguru Himself comes to their rescue (to protect them from the attacks of Maya). The arrows shot (to cause any kind of harm) at the devotees of Waheguru by anyone, boomerang, and hit the shooter back. 4. Whoever serves Waheguru's Pool of Naam-

Amrit (a gathering of holy saints) is honoured in His Court. Whoever recites Waheguru's Naam with the Advice of the Guru (with His Shabad) is embraced by Waheguru, and is connected with Him. 5.
Guru's Shabad to sing Waheguru's praise is like the music of the yogis or the knowledge of the Vedas for the Sikh of the Guru (he does not need any of those). Such a Sikh becomes like Waheguru, and prompted by Waheguru, the masses worship such a Sikh. 6.
The Maya-worshippers do not go to Satguru's shelter; Waheguru takes such infidels through many life forms. They keep the company of those who experience impulses of greed like dogs, and like dogs, they enjoy the taste of carcasses of animals (suck human blood by robbing them of their rightful earnings). 7.
Waheguru's Naam is the saviour of the whole world, and one should recite His Naam in the company of the holy saints. I beg my Waheguru to put me in the company of the holy saints where I can recite His Naam to achieve union with Him, oh Nanak. 8.6.

Binvunt Nanak, jun dhoor(i) baanchheh(i) Hur Ders(i), sehj(i) smaayin. 2. ----------

Word Meaning: Say = those. Oodhray = salvaged. Jutun = efforts. Kaam Na aayay = did not pay. Budbhaagiya = fortunate. Jaagay = get enlightened. Liv = attachment; focus of mind. Tuj(i) = by giving up; getting rid of. Bikaar = immoral acts. Lug(i) Paayay = dropping on the feet; surrendering self. Binvunt = humbly prays. 1.

MEANING: Efforts to earn more wealth do not pay to enhance the spirituality of man (actually, they bond one more strongly with Maya). Only those who recite Waheguru's Naam find salvation. Such devotees are highly fortunate and reap all the rewards. They become enlightened in the company of the holy saints and become attached to (begin to love) Waheguru. By getting rid of my ego, worldly attachments, and my immoral acts in the shelter of the Guru, I will swim across the world-sea by dropping at the feet of the Guru (surrendering myself to Him). I submit humbly that some fortunate devotee gets to have Waheguru's Sight in Guru's shelter. 1.

The devotee, who always recites Waheguru's Naam while enjoying its sweetness in the shelter of the Guru, survives spiritually by singing His praise, and drinks the immortalizing Amrit of His Naam as a result of which, his suffering of rebirths is eradicated. When he recites Waheguru's Naam in the company of the holy saints, he does not suffer from rebirths ever again. I humbly pray to the Lord, who is the carver of our fates, to be kind to me so that I may serve His holy saints. I long for the dust of the feet of the holy saints (to serve them with deep reverence) so that I may get absorbed in Waheguru's Sight (in His Naam), oh Nanak. 2.

Bujee Budhaayi = attains blissfulness. Roonniya = suffer. Kuntth Laayay = holds to the neck; hugs. Bikaar = vices. Binsay = vanishes. Munda = bad. 4.

MEANING: Everybody should recite Waheguru's Naam; one's hard work is fully rewarded and he does not need to recite any ritualistic mantra, torture himself to please any god, or put in efforts to control his senses. Always recite the Naam of the Lord, which is omniscient; as a result, your human life will be all success (you will merge into Waheguru), oh my friends. The devotee, who always sings Waheguru's praise, is approved by Him (and his birth is welcome in the world). Waheguru's Naam is such wealth that subsumes any jup (recitation of ritualistic mantras), tup (self-torturing), and sunjum (efforts to control the senses), and it accompanies one to the next world. I humbly pray to Waheguru that He bestows me with the jewel of His Naam-wealth, which I may possess (acquire) and take with me to His Court. 3. With His benevolence, when Waheguru appears in the mind of a devotee, he feels ecstatic in his mind and enjoys the amazing feats of Waheguru, which is the source of supreme bliss. When the source of all comforts, Waheguru, appears in one's mind, all his wishes are fulfilled. He attains blissfulness, gets absorbed in the high spiritual state, and never suffers any discomfort again. All the immoral thoughts of the devotee vanish, and Waheguru embraces him and provides him with all the comforts. I humbly pray to the Lord, who is the source of supreme bliss, to appear in my heart, oh Nanak. 4.1.

ੴ ਸਤਿਗੁਰ ਪ੍ਰਸਾਦਿ॥ ਰਾਗੁ ਕਾਨੜਾ ਬਾਣੀ ਨਾਮਦੇਵ ਜੀਉ ਕੀ॥

Ek Onkar Satgur Persad(i): Raag(u) Kaanrra, Bani Namdev Jeeou Kee

ਐਸੋ ਰਾਮ ਰਾਇ ਅੰਤਰਜਾਮੀ॥ ਐਸੇ ਦਰਪਨ ਮਾਹਿ ਬਦਨ ਪਰਵਾਨੀ॥ 1॥ ਰਹਾਉ॥ ਬਸੈ ਘਟਾ ਘਟ ਲੀਪ ਨ ਛੀਪੈ॥ ਬੰਧਨ ਮੁਕਤਾ ਜਾਤੁ ਨ ਦੀਸੈ॥ 1॥ ਪਾਨੀ ਮਾਹਿ ਦੇਖੁ ਮੁਖੁ ਜੈਸਾ॥ ਨਾਮੇ ਕੋ ਸੁਆਮੀ ਬੀਠਲੁ ਐਸਾ॥ 2॥1॥

Aiyso Ram Raayay untarjaami. Aiysay derpun maah(i) budun pervaani. Ruhaou. Busaiy ghutaa ghut leep na chheepaiy. Bundhun mookta, jaat(u) na deesaiy. 1. Paani mah(i) daykh(u) mookh(u) jaiysa. Naamay ko Soami, Beetthul(u) aiysa. 2.1.

Word Meaning: Aiyso = such is. Untarjaami = omniscient. Derpun = mirror. Budun = face. Pervaani = accepted; appears. Pause. Leep Na = no effect of Maya. Chheepaiy = the hidden. Mookta = free from all bonds. Jaat(u) Na = cannot be. 1.

MEANING: Man's heart is like a mirror in which his qualities are reflected (his deeds are a reflection of his heart). (A mirror shows the image which is like the object in front of it), So, if you wish to see the omniscient Royal Waheguru in your heart, you have to be like Him. Pause.

Waheguru, which is free from all bonds and is completely unaffected by Maya, resides hidden in every heart, but cannot be seen. 1.

Like one's image in water, my Lord is such that one can see Him only when he becomes like Him, oh Namdev. (Once again, one has to be like Waheguru to see Him in the mirror of his heart). 2.1.
