Suvvuyiyay Sri Mookh Baak Mehla 5

Word Meaning: Suvuyya: A type of lyric. Mookh Baak = words from the mouth of (Mehla 5-Guru Arjun De Ji). There are suvuyyias written by some Bhatts (a caste of Brahmans) in praise of the first five Gurus, including Guru Arjun Dev Ji, with the headings, "Suvuyyiyay Mehla 1,2,3,4, and 5". To avoid confusion, Guru Arjun Dev Ji added "Mookh Baak" before Mehla 5, clarifying that the following 2 sets of suvuyyias are written by Him (in praise of Waheguru and Guru Nanak Sahib), not by the Bhatts. The word "Gur(u) Nanak" has been used only for the First Guru (Guru Nanak) in this set.

He Himself is supporting the entire universe, and showing His powers. He has no body colour, no physical features, and no beard. (Guru) Nanak(u) is the supreme devotee at Waheguru's Door, who is equal to Him (Waheguru). How can I, with a single tongue, describe Guru Nanak's greatness (sing His praise)? Gods like Brahma, and like his four sons, have not found the limits of His virtues; even though He is present everywhere, Waheguru is inaccessible, and cannot be accessed in terms of His worth. Recite Waheguru's Naam with your tongue, even if it is for a very short period of time. The short-lived comforts of Maya are (spiritually) unrewarding and become chains for you, keeping you bonded to worldly attractions, with the result that you will have to suffer through many life forms. (So, to attain emancipation), recite Waheguru's Naam with love and deep from the core of your heart (with full dedication) with the advice of the holy saints, oh Nanak. 2.

Word Meaning: Runchuk = a little. Rayt = sand; male sperm. Khayt = field (of mother's womb). Nirmit = initiated; laid foundation. Doorlubh = rarely available. Suvaar(i) = adorned. Paan = drinks (water). Sodhay = mansions. Bhoonchut = to enjoy. Sunkut Kaat(i) = removing the suffering (in the womb). Biput = trouble. Huree = removed. Boojhun Kee = to recognize. Soojh(u) = ability to understand. Berdhmaan = old. Prut(i) Nit = everyday. Nicket(i) = near; close. Bikhum = tough; undesirable. Juree = old age. Re = oh. Goon-heen = lacking all qualities; thankless. Deen = weak. Kirm = worm. Ghuree = a short time. Geh(i) = hold. Kirpa-Nidh(i) = source of kindness. Bherm = misgivings. Bhuree = bale. 3.

MEANING: Like a small amount of sand in a field, a very tiny sperm is implanted in the field of the mother's womb to initiate life, where, with Waheguru's laws, it germinates and results in a rarely available (invaluable) lovely human body. Then Waheguru ends the suffering of the fetus in the mother's womb (when the child is born), and provides food, drinks (water, milk, etc.), and big mansions for the (deserving) man to enjoy. He gives the man the wisdom to recognize (and love) his mother, father, brothers (siblings), and other relatives. However, with every day that passes, the man grows older, and his undesirable old age finally approaches. But the thankless man gets so engrossed in Maya that he becomes its worm and becomes weak in spirituality. He should recite Waheguru's Naam, even if it is for a short while, and pray to Him that the benevolent and the source of kindness, Waheguru, should hold his hand and remove the big bale (package) of his misgivings, advises Nanak. 3.

Simer(i) Gopal Duyaal Satsungut(i), Nanak jug jaanut soopna. 4.

Word Meaning: Moos = mouse. Bilaa = burrow; hole; mind. Gerbut = egoist. Kertub = deeds. Muhaa Mooghna = of huge foolishness. Sumput = wealth. Doal = swing(n). Jhoolut = swing(v). Mugun = fully absorbed; engrossed. Googhna = (like an) owl. Mirt(u) = death. Munjaar = cat. Moh(i) Budhiyo = increasing love. Ghunaa = immense. Boyo = seeded.

Beej(u) = seed. Uhun = ego and selfishness. Mum = attachment. Unkoor = sprouting. Beetut = spends. Aoudh = life. Ughnaa = sins. Mirt(u) = death Munjaar = cat. Nirkhut = is watching. Bhoonchut = enjoys. Bhookh Bhookhna = appetite of worldly attractions; discontented. 4.

MEANING: Like a mouse in his burrow, you feel proud in your mind but act like a big fool, oh man. Engrossed in worldly affairs, you are misled by the attractions of Maya, and are swinging the swing of wealth like an owl (ignorant). You have an immense attachment to your sons, your wife, your friends, and your relatives, and to the comforts of life, which act as the seed for your ego and selfishness, and they flourish fast; this is how you are spending your life committing sins. The cat-like death is watching you with its mouth wide open as you enjoy the comforts of life, and yet your appetite for more keeps increasing (you do not find contentment). You should recite Waheguru's Naam in a holy gathering, and think of the world only as a dream, oh Nanak. 4.

Word Meaning: Gayh = house. Nayh = affection. Neeta = everyday; always. Kuhaan luou = how long. Gaarhou = be conceited. Chutar = royal canopy. Putar = letter of authority; commands. Chaur = royal whisk. Chaavur = servants to fan the whisk. Behti Jaat = shortening of life span. Ruth = chariots. Ushuv = horses. Guj = elephants. Singhaasun = throne. Chhin = moment. Tiyaagut = giving up. Sidhaarhou =leave. Soor = Beer = valiant (soldiers). Meer = rulers. Khaanum = Khans; chiefs. Drisht(i) Nihaarou = can see. Koat = forts. Oat = shelters. Koas = treasures. Chhota = can save. Doyoo Ker Jhaarut = empty handed; without any shame (or fear). Kluttar = wife. Sukh = friends. Ooltut Jaat = turn faces away; quit company. Chaarhoun = shade. Agumm = inaccessible. Apaarhou = limitless. Sriput(i) = husband of Maya; God. 5.

MEANING: Your body, houses, affection of your family, royal canopy, commands, royal whisk, and those who fan the whisk, will not stay with you all the time; so how long can you take pride in them? You do not think about the span of your life, which is slipping by the moment (and you still do not remember Waheguru), oh man. You will leave all your chariots, the horses, the elephants, and your throne in a moment, and leave the world barehanded.

You will not see any of your brave soldiers, rajahs, or the wealthy chiefs to support you. You commit immoral acts without any fear of Waheguru, but no fort, shelter, or treasure can save you from death. Like the shifting shade of trees, all your friends, sons, wife, and close friends will turn their faces away from you. Recite the Naam of Waheguru, which is omnipresent, kind to the poor, is inaccessible, and limitless every moment, oh man.

I have come to the shelter of Waheguru, which is the Husband of Maya, and the Lord of the whole world, and pray to Him that He salvages me with His benevolence, oh Nanak. 5.

Nanak, sunt churn sung(i) oodhray, hoar(i) Maya mugun chulay subh(i) daari. 6.

Word Meaning: Maan = pride. Daan = (forced) donations. Mug Johun = watch path (of travellers); rob them. Heet(u) Cheet(u) = love in mind. Paari = accumulated. Saajun Saiyn = close friends. Taahoo Tay = from those. Niraari = separate (hide from). Dhaavun Paavun = rushing to. Koor Kmaavun = short-lived wealth. Bidh(i) = means. Jaari = burn; endure suffering. Kerm Dherm = religious rituals. Sunjum = control on senses. Sooch = external purity (cleanliness). Nayma = observe principles. Chunchul = fickle Maya. Haari = lose to. Pushoo = animals. Usthaavur = immovable (vegetation). Ut(i) Bhaari = extremely heavy burden of. Khin Chusaa = very short times. Deena Nath = the Lord of the humble (Waheguru). Saari = the whole world. Meetth Rus = sweet tasting. Hoat = become. Kut = absolutely; at once. Khaari = bitter. Daari = dropping; leaving behind. 6.

MEANING: People love wealth so much that they risk even their lives and their pride, rob people, or force them to give them donations to accumulate it. Even though they love their relatives, they still hide it from their close friends, their sons, and their brothers. They rush and use many different means to earn short-lived wealth, only to spend their lives in such suffering. Even though wealth is so fickle (short-lived), all the religious rituals, efforts to control the senses, and the principles people observe are lost before the effort to accumulate wealth (people attach much more importance to wealth than to performing noble deeds). As a result, the man suffers a great deal by going through many different life forms - like animals, birds, trees, and vegetation, etc. The whole world (is so busy accumulating Maya) that it does not recite the Naam of Waheguru, which is the Lord of the weak (humble) and of our lives, even for a short moment. All the delicious foods, drinks, and sweet-tasting dishes become bitter at the time of death. One can find salvation only at the feet (in the shelter) of the holy saints; all others, who are engrossed in Maya, leave the world even without any wealth, oh Nanak. 6.

Word Meaning: Chhund = the Vedas. Moonie = hermits; sages. Soor = gods. Rusk(i) = with sweetness. Moonindar = great sages. Gorukh = a respected yogi guru. Dhern(i) = earth. Phoon(i) = again. Dayv = dev = gods. Daanuv = demons. Murm(u) = secret. Tiyaag(i) = giving up; ignoring. Aan = others. Jaacheh(i) = wish for. Dunt = teeth. Rusn = tongue. Ghus(i) Jaavut = wear out; spend their whole life. Moor = foolish.

MEANING: All the gods like Brahma and Shiva, sages, gods, and the Vedas, sing Waheguru's praise, enjoying its sweetness. Gods like Indra, great sages, and Gorakh, search for Him on the ground and in the sky (everywhere). Be it the Sidh yogis, humans, gods, or the demons, none has ever found any secret of Him, not even the size of a sesame seed. However, those who worship Him with deep affection and with the spirit of a dedicated devotee get absorbed in His holy Sight (thoughts). Forgetting Waheguru, those who beg for favours at someone else's door spend their whole lives begging but do not gain anything (Spiritually). I advise my foolish mind to recite the Naam of Waheguru alone, which is the Lord of all comforts, oh Nanak. 7.

Word Meaning: Rung = happiness; enjoyments. Birung = lack of enjoyments; griefs. Koop(i) = deep open well. Goobaar(i) = in the darkness. Gub(u) = conceit. Na Maavut = cannot contain. Bishta = feces. Ust = bones. Kirm = germs. Oodur(i) = belly. Jobun = youth. Ugiyaan = lack of knowledge; ignorance. Huriyo Haiy = has lost to; robbed of. Juraa Roag(i) = old age diseases. Bikhiya = poisonous Maya. Grussiyo = in the grip of. Dunn(u) = Saasun = punishment. Mirt(u) = death. Nerk Sunkut = suffering of the hell. Bhoonchut = experiencing. Hurt(i) Guriyo = fallen in deep pit. Aap(i) = God.

MEANING: Misled by his worldly attachments, the man is trapped in the well of darkness (is blinded by his attachments); and does not realize that if Maya brings him happiness, it can also bring him grief. He is so conceited that even the sky cannot contain it (has a limitless ego), and does not realize that his belly (body) is full of feces, bones, and germs. Robbed by his ignorance, he rushes in every direction to earn more wealth, which is a poison for his spirituality, and snatches it from others. Even when his youth is over, and he is in the grip of old age diseases, (he does not quit making plans to acquire more wealth), as a result, he suffers spiritual death many times, and the punishment by the Angel of justice awaits him. He falls into a deep pit of suffering and goes through the hell of rebirths in many different forms. But those who worship Waheguru with love and dedication are salvaged by the benevolence of Waheguru, who makes them holy saints, oh Nanak. 8.

MEANING: (With the recitation of Waheguru's Naam with love and respect), all my wishes have been fulfilled, and I have achieved my objective of acquiring all the noble qualities. Waheguru's Naam is the mantra and the talisman to cure the diseases of one's lust, rage, intoxication of one's wealth, and other luxuries of life, jealousy of others, and fire of worldly desires. Acquiring Waheguru's lotus-like Feet (His Naam) in the heart, subsumes dips at holy places, donations to Brahmans, self-affliction, and efforts to maintain external purity (one does not need any of those). Waheguru is the source, and the support of our lives, and is our close friend and our relative. I have sought the shelter of the omnipotent Waheguru, and am always a sacrifice for Him (wish to serve Him in any capacity), oh Nanak. 9.

Boar(i) = drown; sink. Punth(i) = path. Pug(i) = with feet. Doakh = blames; vices. Ugh = sins. Chhiday = pierced. Khug(i) = arrow. 10.

MEANING: No weapon can sever the sweetness of one's love with Waheguru's Feet (Naam), and no rope can tie (arrest) the mind which has been pierced with the arrow of Waheguru's love. No fire can burn the bond of one's love for the dust of Waheguru's Feet (His Naam); and no water can drown the feet which walk on the path of union with Waheguru. Thutooaa = adopt different ways (garbs; looks).

MEANING: People make many different efforts to connect with Waheguru, including pondering the six Shastras (Hindu holy books). Many people coat their bodies with ash (to look ugly to women), wear matted hair, and wander at holy places, while others punish themselves and lose too much weight to please their deities. Like the spider, which weaves its web and dies trapped in it, the man suffers (spiritual death) without love for Waheguru as he weaves strong nets of worldly attractions and of his ego around him. Misled by their false beliefs, many others adopt many different means like painting religious symbols on their bodies, cooking meals with their own hands (for the sake of purity), and so on (but fail to please God). 2.11.20.

Note: There are 11 Bhatts whose compositions have been enshrined in Sri Guru Granth Sahib on pages 1389-1409. Bhatts are Brahmans (but not of the high class). At first, Bhikha Ji, who was searching for God, came to the shelter of Guru Amar Dass Ji, and was so impressed with Guru Sahib that he invited his 10 nephews – Kalsahar (aka Kullh, or Tullh), Jaalup, Keerat, Sullh, Bhullh, Nulllh, Gaayind, Mathura, Bullh, and Haribans - to Guru Ji's shelter. All these were poets, and they were so overwhelmed by the high-moral teachings of Guru Sahib and His daily lifestyle that they wrote poetry in praise of all the first five Guru Sahiban, which Guru Arjun Dev Ji kindly enshrined in Guru Granth Sahib.

Disregarding the writings of their deeds by the Angel of justice, they are emancipated by Waheguru. With their hearts full of love and respect, they recite Waheguru's Naam. Guru Amar Dass Ji is the river of pearls (source of virtues and of kindness) and salvages those who are drowning in the world sea. He was born spiritually into the holy clan of Guru Nanak Sahib and sings Waheguru's praise. All kinds of suffering and poverty of those who serve Guru Amar Dass Ji disappear. 3.17.

I can serve the Lord, Waheguru, only if I get the stamp of approval in Your command. When the Guru casts a kind look at an individual, he gets to recite Waheguru's Naam as the reward. I can say only those things in Waheguru's praise that Guru Amar Dass Ji, who is a manifestation of the incomprehensible and the creator, Waheguru, makes me say. Guru Amar Dass Ji is the controller of our deeds, and I will gladly lead the life the way He advises me (says poet, Keerat). 4.18.

Word Meaning: Tut = the root (Waheguru's Soul). Tut(u) = human soul. Sach(i) = with the eternal truth (Waheguru's Naam). Liv = deep focus of mind. Puvun(u) Oodunt = the moving air-like fickle mind. Kul(i) = in the world. Jinh(i) = who; Waheguru. Sehj Rung(i) = with love in blissful mind.

MEANING: Guru Amar Dass Ji is the source of Divine Knowledge and has practised deep meditations so much so that He can unite the human soul with that of Waheguru. He focuses His mind on the "One" (Waheguru), which can be realized only by reciting His Naam. He has conquered His lust and rage and controlled His wind-like wandering mind so that it does not waver anymore. He resides in the land of the formless Waheguru (stays connected with Him), and makes up His mind only by recognizing Waheguru's Huqam. Guru Amar Dass Ji is a manifestation of Waheguru only, which Waheguru knows about, and only who (Guru Ji) knows what He (Waheguru) does. I have been connected with that Guru (which is a manifestation of Waheguru), and saw Him in that form in my blissful state, and, with love for Him, submits Bhikha (the poet) humbly. 1.19.

Rukheh(i) = keep me.

MEANING: I was searching for some holy man, and visited many so-called saints, whose praise I had heard from others. All those learned Brahmans and other “gurus” were very sweet in conversation, but none of them impressed me with their Divine Knowledge or with their daily moral living (they did not practise what they preached). What (bad) qualities of those should I mention, because leaving Waheguru’s Naam aside, they were attracted to Maya? Now, Waheguru has connected me with the true Guru (Amar Dass Ji), and I will be very happy in whatever situation He puts me in, submits Bhikha. 2.20.

He is holding the bow of high morality in His hands, and is fighting against his enemies (the five demons) with the arrows of patience and sweet nature which is becoming of (befits) the supreme devotees of Waheguru. With fear of Waheguru in mind, Guru Amar Dass Ji has become fearless and is fully in control of His mind. He has shattered the five demons – lust, rage, greed, worldly attachments, and selfishness and ego – and has declared victory over them with Guru’s Shabad. With the blessings of the King of kings, Guru Nanak Sahib, Tej Bhan’s son, Guru Amar Dass Ji, has Himself, become a great King. Poet Sullh begs to tell the truth that Guru Amar Dass Ji has won the battle against the five demons by fighting in this way. 1.21.

Bhulla = the subcaste (family name) of Guru Amar Dass Ji. Oopma = praise; greatness. Bun(i) Aavaiy = befits.

MEANING: Nobody can count the waterdrops in the rain, the number of plants on the earth, and the number of flowers in spring. Similarly, nobody can find the end to the number of rays of the sun and the moon, the amount of water in the ocean, and the number of waves in the River, Ganga. But suppose, with the meditative ability of Shiva, and with the knowledge imparted by Satguru, one is able to find the above numbers, certainly, nobody can find the end to the virtues of Guru Amar Dass Ji. His greatness befits only Him (only He can match His greatness), oh poet, Bhullh. 1.22.9.11.10.10.62.

NOTE: As you can see above, Guru Arjun Dev Ji (who compiled Guru Granth Sahib) has given a special heading to the Suvvuyiyas of Bhika Ji despite the fact that he wrote only two suvvuyiyas, and that too only in praise of Guru Amar Dass Ji. This clearly proves that Bhikha Ji was the first among all the Bhatts to take shelter under Guru Amar Dass Ji, and his nephews must have joined him much later. They were able to spend a very short time with Guru Amar Dass Ji, and much more time with the Fourth Master, Guru Ram Dass Ji. This fact becomes clearer from the number of Bhatts who wrote in praise of Guru Amar Dass Ji (5) and Guru Ram Dass Ji (7).

The poet, Nullh, humbly submits that you have faith in the Guru as a manifestation of Waheguru, and recite His Shabad with words by keeping your sight on Him (keeping Him in mind). If you wish to acquire the wisdom (holy thinking) to connect with Waheguru and acquire the supernatural powers, recite the Naam of the Guru, oh my mind. 5.9.

To fulfill the desired success (wish) of Guru Ram Dass Ji to drink the holy Amrit of Guru's Shabad, Waheguru created the perfect occasion for Him (and connected Him with Guru Amar Dass Ji). He achieved full contentment of His mind (became peaceful), which normally runs around in all ten directions to enjoy the sensual pleasures. I am captivated by Your holy Sight just the way Jushodh was captivated to see Krishna's extremely beautiful looks, and by the pleasant sound of the bells in his waistband when he played. The pen to write the fate of the people is in Your hands. Who can erase those fates? Gods like Shiva and Brahma long to be enlightened by Your Shabad, and enshrine it in their hearts. You are eternal like Waheguru, the dwelling place of Maya (You control it), and, as a manifestation of God, You have been here all the time. You are amazing! amazing! and amazing, oh Guru Ram Dass Ji. 1.6.

NOTE: The poet, (Gayund) does not himself believe in gods like Vishnu, Brahma, Shiva, Krishna etc. See Suvuyyiya 11 in this section. He is just praising Guru Ram Dass Ji using the popularity of these Hindu gods.

The sun and the moon join His army of devotees to enhance His majesty, and the drums of His fame are beating aloud. He (Guru Ram Dass Ji) reiterates Waheguru's Naam in the minds of His devotees, destroys sins, and ensures wellbeing of everybody in the whole world.

He is a manifestation of Waheguru, which has created all the living beings, including the Sheshnaag (the mythical multi-headed serpent) and is the God of all gods. Being a manifestation of Waheguru, Guru Ram Dass took the different incarnations of Vishnu as a fish when he retrieved the Vedas from the ocean, which the demons had hidden them there; as turtle to support the churner when the gods and the demons jointly churned the ocean; and as boar to retrieve the earth from the ocean where again the demons had hidden it. Also, for me (the poet), it was Guru Ram Dass Ji, who, as Krishna, played games with the rubber ball by the banks of the Yamuna. Guru Ram Dass Ji is a manifestation of Waheguru, so enshrine His supreme Shabad in your heart, and quit all the evils, oh Gayund. 4.9.

With the blessings of Gurus Nanak Dev Ji, Angad Dev Ji, and Amar Dass Ji, Guru Ram Dass Ji merged His soul with the Supreme Soul of Waheguru. His holy fame has spread all over the world, so who can say that Guru Ram Dass Ji has died, oh Haribans 1.
