Word Meaning: Khaaya = devoured; ruined; rendered powerless. Sookh(i) Baiytthaali = worshipped. Bhuou = fear. Kootumb = family. Bibaaday = fight. Vusgut(i) = in control. 1. Bimohit = captivated. Sadhik = those who purify their minds by Yogic exercises. Soordayv = gods. Sadhu = Guru. Dhrohin(i) = with bad intentions (Maya). Dhrohay = robbed (of good qualities); cheated; misguided. Pause. Oodaasi = detached from worldly attractions. Kaam(i) = lust. Viyaapaiy = affects gravely; overpowers. Suncheh(i) = accumulate wealth. Giruhee = family man. Sutee = of high morality. Kulpaavaiy = agonizes; torments. 2. Tupsee = those who suffer self-affliction to please some deity. Mohay = captivated. Subaayay = all. Traiy Goon = all those affected by Maya. Aakaash(u) = sky (gods who are believed to live in the sky). 3. Giyani = having Divine Knowledge (connected with God). Daas(i) = slave. Ker = hands. Kaar Kmaavaan = serve. 4.

MEANING: Everybody is captivated by money. Be it the yogis under training, the accomplished Sidh yogis, the gods, or human beings, all are deceived (misguided) by the deceptive Maya. Pause. Whoever shows love for Maya (wealth) in his mind is ruined by it (in many different ways), and it scares the one who worships it a great deal. All the brothers, friends, and family members start fighting over it to get their share. But, with Guru's grace, I was able to control my desire for Maya. 1. Those who have renounced the world are affected gravely by it in the form of lust; and it does not stay with the family men who try to accumulate it. It torments those who claim to have high moral character. But I was saved by Waheguru when I came to Satguru's shelter. 2. It lures the "Tupsees" and misguides them, and it captivates the highly learned Brahmans in the form of greed. It captivates the humans who live under its three effects, and it also captivates the gods in the sky. But the Satguru protected me by extending His hand. 3.

It acts like a slave to the Giyanis (those who are connected with God) and serves them with folded hands, with the request that it would do everything it is told to do by them. It also says that "I do not get even close to the devotees (do not have the ability to deceive them) who have taken Guru's shelter", oh Nanak. 4.1.

Anahud = uniform Divine music. Muha Anund = great blissfulness. Priyay = dear (Waheguru). Raati = imbued in His love. Dhun = worthy of respect. Sohaagun(i) = married (to Waheguru). Naar(i) = woman; human soul. 3. Braham Beechaar(i) = ponder on Waheguru; sing praise of Waheguru. Kmaavaiy = works hard. Ootraiy Paar(i) = is ferried across the sea of Maya. Saytee = with. Smaayay = fully attuned. 4.

MEANING: My Waheguru-husband separated (detached) me from Maya. My hopes (wishes) and desires died in suffering (have no effect on me now). All the accounts of my bad deeds are cleared, and I owe nothing to the Angel of Death now. My dear Waheguru saved me (from all vices) and made me wise and intelligent. 1. I have realized the sweet taste of love for Waheguru, listen, oh folks. All my evils and my vices, which were my deadly enemies, have been destroyed by Waheguru's Naam, which was given to me by my Satguru. Pause. First of all, with Waheguru's Naam, I have given up the love for selfishness and ego; and secondly, I have given up all the societal customs and rituals. Rising above the three effects of Maya, now I treat all my enemies (evil people) and my friends the same way. In the shelter of the Guru, I have recognized the noble qualities that raise one's spiritual level above the three effects of Maya. 2. Now, I have settled in the cave (state) of blissfulness (where my mind no longer wavers), and the Divine Music in praise of the beautiful and the light-like Waheguru is playing in my ears. Pondering on Guru's Shabad produces great bliss in my mind. Such a soul, which is fully imbued in Waheguru's love, is worthy of respect (is highly fortunate) and is married (connected) with Waheguru) forever. 3. I am a slave of Waheguru, and sing praise of His virtues. Whosoever listens and works hard to acquire them (virtues), is salvaged. He never dies or takes birth again; he stays fully attuned with Waheguru. 4.2.

MEANING: One's dedication to Waheguru is like a sweet-natured wife (who supports you in every situation). She (worship of Waheguru) has unparalleled beauty and is perfect in mannerisms. The heart in which it resides becomes praiseworthy. But some rare individual acquires it in the shelter of the Guru. 1. Such a wife with noble qualities is possible to have only in the company of the Guru. It outshines beautifully at auspicious occasions such as a marriage (in gatherings where people love to listen to Waheguru's praise). Pause. As long as the good qualities stay with the Guru (and not yet acquired by an individual), the human soul stays distressed (finds no meaningful purpose). But when the devotee works hard (obeys the Guru's advice) and pleases Him, the Guru implants all the noble qualities (love for Waheguru) in the devotee's heart, which then feels blissful and enjoys all comforts. 2. Dedication to (worship of) Waheguru has all the accepted 32 noble qualities, and gives birth to offspring like truthfulness, high morality, and sweet nature, etc. Such a wife is highly obedient (within the limits of high morality), wise, and attractive. It fulfills all the noble wishes of the soul as its husband, and satisfies its hopes and desires, and still keeps them in check. 3. It is supreme in the family of all senses, and advises all desires and wishes to stay within the boundaries of morality. That heart is great (fortunate) in which it appears, and the life of such an individual is spent in blissfulness, oh Nanak. 4.3.

Word Meaning: Mutaa = resolution. Pukkun(i) = mature to fruition. Seel = sweet nature. Sunjum = efforts to control the senses. Nicket(i) Khloyee = stays close (erects hurdles). Vays Kuray = takes different forms. Roop = (beautiful) looks. Greh(i) = in the house (mind). Bhermaavaiy = captivates. 1. Naayik(i) = heroine; mistress (Maya). Ghur(u) = mind. Vaas(u) = dwelling; stay. Jutun = efforts. Oojhaayay = entangles. Prayvaiy = in the distant (unrelated) issues. Pause. Dhoor = from the source (Waheguru). Aamir(i) = slave. Nuou Khund = 9 regions of the earth. Thaan Thnuntar = all places. Tut(i) = banks of rivers (some people meditate on river banks). Suniyas = mystics who have renounced the world. 2. Jeh baiysoun = wherever I sit. Bhuvun = worlds. Subul = with full force. Pervaysaiy = enters; attacks. Hochhi = weak; unreliable. Shern(i) = shelter. 3. Oopdaysh(u) = advice. Drirraaya = reinforced. Nij Ghur = own house; stable mind. Anunta = endless (Waheguru). Bhuyay = became. Achinta = worry-free. 4. Naayik(i) = mistress; wife. Aamir(i) = slave. Durbaari = holder of the court; ruler. Second Pause. 4.4.

MEANING: The mistress of my mind, Maya, does not allow my mind to stay in itself (captivates it, and causes it to wander in different directions). No matter how hard I try to control my mind, it gets entangled in (think about) many attractive situations. Pause.

It does not allow any of my resolutions to mature, and stays very close as guard (to oppose) my sweet nature and my efforts to control my sensual pleasures. It tries to distract me by its many attractive forms, and tries to captivate my mind in many different ways so that it

(my mind) does not stay in itself peacefully. 1. Waheguru had sent it as a slave to serve the living beings, but on the contrary, it has conquered (controlled) everybody everywhere. It has spared nobody, including those who meditate on the river banks or at holy places, and the mystics who have renounced the world, even though they might have exhausted themselves studying the Vedas and the Upanishads and practising their teachings. 2. It sits by my side (to misguide me) all the time, and also invades all the worlds with great force. One cannot survive its powerful attacks by taking shelter in some imperfect guru. So, tell me whose shelter I should seek to escape its attacks, oh, my friend? 3. Listening to somebody's good advice, I came to the shelter of the Perfect Guru, who reinforced Waheguru's Naam in my mind as the real Mantra to fend off the attacks of Maya. By singing praise of the limitless Waheguru, my mind is staying in its own home now (it does not wander anymore). By connecting with Waheguru, I have become worry-free, oh Nanak. 4. Now my mind stays in its own house (I have full control over it), and Maya has become my mistress. The Guru has made me the ruler of my mind, and Maya has become my slave. Second Pause. 4.4.

Jeh Keh = here and there (everywhere). Shernaayee = in shelter. Paiyj = dignity. Vujji = spread. 4.

NOTE: This holy Shabad is a partial narrative of an important event in Guru Arjun Sahib's life. Guru Sahib's elder brother, Pirthi Chand, was very upset at the fact that their father, Guru Ram Dass Ji, had passed on the Gurushipto His youngest son, Arjun Dev Ji, depriving Pirthi Chand of Gurushipbecause he was highly money-minded and egoist, as result of which Guru Ram Dass Ji did not think of him as deserving Guruship even though, he was the eldest son. Pirthi Chand always thought that it was his “right” to be the next Guru. When he was denied that right, he became highly agitated and tried every possible way to deprive Guru Arjun Sahib of the Guruship. When all his efforts failed, he made his last move by seeking the help of the army commander of Lahore, Sulhi Khan, who was Pirthi Chand’s friend.

Guru Arjun Dev Ji had a brick kiln built to bake bricks for the construction of Harmandir Sahib (also known as the Golden Temple). Pirthi Chand advised Sulhi Khan to ask Guru Arjun Dev Ji to provide the bricks to build a mosque in Lahore, knowing full well that Guru Arjun Sahib would never agree. He further suggested to Sulhi Khan that if (Guru) Arjun Dev (Ji) refuses to meet his demand, he should forcibly get the bricks. Sulhi Khan was thrilled to hear the suggestion. He wrote a letter to Guru Sahib demanding the bricks and threatened that if the Guru refused, he would attack the Guru and forcibly obtain the bricks.

When the Sikhs learned of this new problem, they became very concerned and made various suggestions to Guru Sahib, as described in the holy Shabad above. Guru Sahib knew the real source of the problem and knew that nothing would work. So He did not take any preventive measures and simply prayed to Waheguru. Guru Sahib politely wrote back, explaining that He could not give the bricks because they were being baked for a very noble cause.

This non-compliance on the part of Guru Sahib made Sulhi Khan really mad, and he left Lahore for Amritsar with a small army. The brick-kiln lay on the road between Lahore and Amritsar. When Sulhi reached the brick-kiln, he wanted to examine the situation with his own eyes. He rode his horse to the top of the wall of the kiln when a huge flame of fire advanced towards Sulhi Khan with a big, scary noise. The horse got so scared that he jumped into the fire, taking Sulhi Khan with him, who turned into ashes very quickly.

The lesson of this Shabad is that when you have no means to fight some impossible situation, just pray to Waheguru and have full faith in Him.

MEANING: The first suggestion that was given to me (Guru Arjun Dev Ji) was to send a letter (to Sulhi Khan). The second suggestion was that I should send a couple of men (to negotiate with Sulhi Khan). (When I expressed my unwillingness to the two suggestions), I was advised to take preventive measures to resolve this difficult situation. (Convinced that nothing will work with the conceited and the unreasonable Sulhi Khan), I did nothing and just remembered (prayed to) Waheguru, leaving everything to Him. 1.

One enjoys great blissfulness and peace of mind when he remembers Waheguru. The fear of all his enemies and aggressors is destroyed (with full faith in Waheguru), and one enjoys comfort. Pause. My Satgur explained to me that human life and body are Waheguru’s possessions (gifts) (so He looks after you all the time). Now, I have full faith that Waheguru is my real shelter, and He is the True King. So, whatever I do is based on His strength for me. 2. Where else can I go for support without You, oh Waheguru? Nobody else is like You (equal to You). Your devotee is not dependent (subservient) to anyone. The money-worshipper is misguided (to ignore You) as if he is in some wilderness with no real direction. 3. Your magnanimity is beyond description. You protect me everywhere by embracing me. I, am Your slave and under Your protection, oh Waheguru. Waheguru saved my dignity, and I feel great joy in my mind, oh Nanak. 4.5.

Word Meaning: Perdays(u) = the world of Maya (there are two worlds (ways to spend life – Maya and Waheguru's worship or His Naam). Jhaag(i) = enduring the difficulties. Sauday Kuou = for the business (of Waheguru's Naam). Vust(u) = product; merchandise. Anoop = of unparalleled beauty. Labhaaya = liked very much; fell in love with. Raas(i) = capital for business. Pullaiy = in possession. Aani = brought. Ruttan = precious like a jewel (Waheguru's Naam). Luptaani = clung to. 1. Shah = the owner of the business (Waheguru). Vapaari = buyers (devotees). Vukkhur(u) = product to buy (Waheguru's Naam). Sauda = deal. Pause. Putthaaya = sent. Shaahaiy Paas(i) = to Satguru. Amoal = invaluable. Visht(u) = the mediator (Satguru). Soobhaayee = sweet-natured. Nihchul = peaceful. 2. Bhuou = fear. Tuskur = thief. Sehj(i) = in a blissful state of mind. Vihaajhi = bought. Sat Kaiy Khuttiyain = earned by honest means. Suhee slaamut(i) = safely. 3. MEANING: After having endured all the difficulties of renouncing the captivating world of Maya using different means, I came to the door of Waheguru to deal in the merchandise of Waheguru's Naam. When I heard about the product of unparalleled beauty (Waheguru's Naam), I fell in love with it. On "seeing" the jewel-like, precious Product, my mind became so greedy for it that I clung to it (the Product). (I knew what it took to buy this unique Product) So, I acquired the capital of noble qualities for investment. 1. I, as a businessman, came to the door of King Waheguru, the owner of the Product, and requested to show the product so as to make a deal. Pause. But Waheguru sent me to the Satguru because only the Satguru can strike the deal. Like the invaluable Product (Waheguru's Naam), the investment needed to buy it (Godlike noble qualities) is also invaluable. I found the Satguru to be a very sweet-natured mediator, and He got me the Product with which my mind became fully stable (peaceful). 2. There is no fear of a thief who could steal this Product, or of wind which could blow it away, or of water which could dissolve or carry it with its current. This Product was acquired in the blissful state of mind, and will be stored in my heart in the same state. (Unlike the business in the real world, where some unethical deals are made) There was no trouble of any kind in this deal because the Product (Waheguru's Naam) was acquired through honest means (high moral values and hard labour). And, I was able to store it safely in my heart. 3. As an added benefit, my mind has become blissful. Both the owners of the Naam (Waheguru and Satguru) are worthy of our respect as they are very liberal and kind donors. But some rare devotee gets to buy this precious Product in the shelter of Satguru. I was lucky to have this comforting merchandise, oh Nanak. 4.6.

Word Meaning: Uvgun(u) = bad qualities. Roop Rung = beauty and looks. Seegaaro = adornment. Chujj Achaar = mannerism and deeds. Bidh(i) = ways (of life). Sayjaiy = on the bed (of heart). Aani = brought. 1. Sukhee = (female) friend (every human being is labelled as woman in Guru Granth Sahib). Kunt = husband (Waheguru). Khusmaana = took charge. Ker(u) = hand. Mustuk = forehead. Loak(u) = world. Ajaana = ignorant. Pause. Soohaag(u) = married life. Sohiyo = became pretty (enjoyable). Johiyo = looked at with displeasure (and removed). Aangun = courtyard (heart). Sobha Chund = looks pretty like the moon. Nis(i) = night. Baasur = day. Priyay = dear (Waheguru). 2. Bustar = clothes. Rung(i) Chulool = deeply dyed in His love. Aabhurn = jewellery; ornaments. Kuntth(i) = around the neck. Drisht(i) = kind (affectionate) sight. Nidhaan = treasures. Doosht Doot = enemies (the five demons – lust, rage, greed, attachment, and ego). Chooki = cleared; ended. Kaan(i) = subservience. 3. Rung = thrills, happiness. Maanay = enjoy. Greh(i) = in the house (heart). Triptaanay = contented. Seegaari = decorated. Thir(u) = permanently. Soohaagun(i) = married. Bhutaari = husband (Waheguru). 4.

MEANING: My dear Waheguru did not care about my good or bad qualities, nor did He look at my physical beauty or my adornments. He did not even pay any attention to my mannerisms and my deeds, nor did He examine my ways of life. He simply took me by the arm to His bed (of heart) (accepted me as His devotee). 1. Listen to this, oh my friend, my Waheguru-husband took full charge of me, and made me His own by placing His kind hand on my forehead; what does this ignorant world know (about His generosity)? Pause. My married life (with Waheguru-husband) has become very pleasant and enjoyable now. My Husband looked at my troubles with scorn and removed them all. Now the yard (lawn) of my heart is looking very pretty as if the moon is shining there. I am enjoying blissfulness with my Husband day and night. 2. My clothes are (my body is) coloured deeply in His love, and it feels as if a garland of multi-coloured flowers is beautifying my neck. My dear Waheguru cast an affectionate sight on me, and I feel as if I have acquired all the treasures of the world. I am no longer subservient to the five demons (they cannot affect me). 3. With Waheguru's love (Naam) in there, my heart feels as if it has acquired all the nine treasures of god Kuber, and I am enjoying permanent joy and other luxuries of life. When Waheguru adorns a human soul (with noble qualities), it stays married with Him eternally and enjoys His company, oh Nanak. 4.7.

Doobay = sink (spiritually, in character). Nirapraadh = without any cause. Chitveh(i) = think of; wish for. Booriyayee = harmful things. Pause. Loabh(u) = greed. Hulkaayay = like a mad dog. MEANING: Your disciples perform all the rituals of respect for you, and give you donations, oh Brahman Ji. (In return, you bless their house ritualistically, which costs you nothing at all) And after this give-and-take, you deny all the good things they do for you. But, when you are presented before Waheguru in His Court, you will have to repent badly (for your immoral behaviour), oh Brahman. 1. Such Brahmans, who have evil thoughts about innocent people who cause them no harm, sink deeply in morality despite the fact that they may have read many religious books. Pause. They are loaded with greed in their mind, and go around like mad dogs. They vilify innocent people and carry a huge burden (of unwarranted vilification) on their heads (souls). Deceived by Maya, they do not remember Waheguru, and guided by their misbeliefs (illusions of Maya), they are misled in many ways. 2. They don religious robes of many kinds (to impress people), yet they are trapped in Maya's net inwardly. They preach to others, but have no knowledge of them (of the importance of their teachings) (do not practise their teachings). Such a Brahman is never successful anywhere. 3. Remember Waheguru, oh foolish Brahman; He is always with you and observes, and listens to everything in your mind. (Guru) Nanak advises you to take the shelter of the Guru, if you are fortunate, oh Brahman. 4.8.

MEANING: All my troubles and (mental) ailments have left my body (are eliminated), and my mind is pure now because of my singing the virtues of Waheguru. My mind is blissful in the company of the Guru, and has become peaceful now (does not wander any more). 1. The fire of my desires has been extinguished with the recitation of the Shabad of the Guru, oh my mother. All my ailments and worries have been eliminated on meeting with (taking shelter of) the calm and cool Guru, whom I connected with in the blissful state of mind, and by my love for Him. Pause. (With the grace of the Guru) I comprehended (realized) “the one and the only” Waheguru, and now my ever-rushing mind has found its permanent place (high spiritual state). Your holy saints are here to salvage the world, and one feels fully contented upon seeing (meeting) them, oh Waheguru. 2. All my wrongdoings in life are behind me now, and with the grace of the Guru, all my ill thoughts are under my control. Fully absorbed in the blissful state, my mind is singing songs of joy now as it has lost all fears of death (being one with God, death cannot kill the devotees). 3.
My Royal Waheguru is the creator of the whole universe, is omnipotent, and is the source of all comforts. I, Nanak, survive by reciting His Naam, and have become “one” with Him like the cross threads of fabric (warp and weft), and He is my benefactor. 4.9.

If there is any associate of such a vilifier, he is also taken away with him (by the Angel of death). He carries a needless heavy burden like that of a huge python, and suffers in the fire of jealousy in Waheguru's Court. 1.

pleased; satisfied. Anik = countless; many. Soogundhut = fragrances. Til(u) = sesame seed. Smaam(i) = equal. Chitvoun = think of; plan. Asaayee = wish. 1. Dheeraiy = becomes stable (peaceful). Baiyraag(u) = pain of separation. Hiraiy = steals; takes away. Pause. Bustar = clothes. Bibhookhun = ornaments. Bisaykhaiy = special; exclusive. Na Laykhaiy = of no worth. Put(i) = dignity. Khojut, Khojut = searching continuously. Soyay = news. Turiyo = find salvation. Triptaaya = contented. Dunjha = long thirst. Ludha = found. Munjha = inside. 4.

MEANING: The pain of separation from my dear Waheguru is stealing away all my comforts. What should I do to satisfy (control) my mind, oh my mother? Pause.

Even when I beautified my body with all adornments, my mind was not satisfied. If I spray my body with countless fragrances, I still do not get even a small amount of any comfort, not even the size of a sesame seed. My only wish is that I lived by "seeing" my beloved Waheguru, oh my mother. 1. Even the comfort from my exclusive clothes and jewellery does not count (is no match to the comfort that I get from union with my dear Waheguru). Even if I receive lots of respect, praise, honour, and recognition from everybody, and when the whole world is under my command, and I am endowed with a beautiful house and have lots of wealth, all of these luxuries do not match the blissfulness I get when my Waheguru likes me. 2. My mind does not get contentment, and my desires do not go away even when I enjoy delicious foods of many kinds, have a host of various entertainments at my command, and have a large estate to rule, and command a large number of people. The time does not move without "seeing" my Waheguru, but I get all the comforts when I meet (get connected) with Him 3. On looking around expectantly, I heard the news that nobody can swim across the sea of Maya (find salvation) without the shelter of the Guru. But only those get connected with Satguru who have good fortune written on their forehead. When (by the grace of the Satguru), I found my Waheguru in my body and mind, my wish was fulfilled. My deep thirst to see Him was quenched, and I became fully contented, oh Nanak. 4.11.

So, what are you conceited about (when your body is so short-lived), oh foolish and unaware man? You should keep the source (Waheguru, who created you) in mind. Pause. You are a visitor here on this earth and need only about 1.2 kg of food per day. Pause. Even a small moment seems like a long day – in fact, like many days – (without my dear Waheguru). How can I meet my beloved Waheguru? 1. The four quarters of the day seem to be long like the four yugas, and there is no end to the night.

2. The five demons have created a wall of separation between my beloved Waheguru and me. Now I cry and twist (rub) my hands for being misled from the real path. 3. It is the body that is disposed of in water (so it is cold), burned in fire (so it is hot) or buried (when the earth consumes it). Pause. MEANING: My mind was fully purified when I got connected with the Perfect Guru who salvaged me (pulled me out of the deep well of Maya) in a moment. Also, the heavy burden (suffering) of reincarnation for me was eradicated. Pause. Like a gambler who loses his money in gambling, I was able to lose my evil vices like lust, rage, the intoxication of Maya, and jealousy, etc. (life is a gamble in which the man loses his morality and other noble qualities for the short gain of the gimmicks of Maya). But I won noble qualities like service to mankind, contentment, kindness, righteousness, and truthful living in my mind. 1.

It is amazing that a fetus survives in the heat of his mother's womb, supported by Waheguru's Naam, where he remembers Waheguru with every breath, and stays blissful without the heat of the womb causing him any discomfort. 2. (But as the baby arrives in the world), he is attracted by Maya in many ways, and forgets his saviour – Waheguru. But one should not forget Him, and should not trade his friendship with Waheguru for bad qualities like having evil thoughts about wealth, women, and vilification of others. Taking shelter of the Perfect Guru, serve the lotus-like soft Feet of Waheguru (recite His Naam), oh, my friends. 3.
All those big houses, mansions and palaces that one sees and feels proud of will not accompany him at his death. As long as one lives in this world full of vices, he should recite Waheguru's Naam, oh, Nanak. 4.37.

MEANING: One may be a king, and rule over a large estate (country); he may be very youthful, own large mansions, enjoy fame (have good reputation), may be very handsome, and be young in age; he may have lots of wealth, elephants, horses, and unlimited cash (as down payment to buy more property), but none of these things carry any value in Waheguru's Court when the conceited man leaves this world. 1. So, why should one attach his mind deeply to anything other than the "One" (Waheguru)? One should remember Him (recite His Naam) all the time, whether standing, sitting, sleeping, or awake. Pause.
One may own many amazing and beautiful sports rings, or may have won many battles in the battlefields while shouting words of ego like "I will kill, I will imprison, or I will set free"; but when it is the Will of Waheguru, he leaves this world one day. 2.
A man may perform all the religious rituals and other customs, but if he does not recognize the Creator (makes no connection with God), he will leave the world bare (without any additional noble quality the way he came to this world), and all his rituals will be as ineffective as the bath of an elephant which sprays itself with dust after the bath. 3.
Listen, oh my friends and the holy people, the visible expanse of the universe is all false (short-lived). The people drown in the world-sea of Maya, working very hard to satisfy their selfishness and ego, but the foolish leave this world without having achieved anything (spiritually) meaningful. But I recite Waheguru's Naam in the company of the Guru because only Waheguru's Naam salvages us, oh Nanak. 4.1.38.

Everybody is fully absorbed in the love of captivating Maya, and loves it more than their life. Some rare individuals renounce it. 2. MEANING: Anything that You like is acceptable to me, oh Waheguru. And, I enjoy comfort and blissfulness when You are in my mind. You are the creator of the universe, are capable of doing anything (are omnipotent), are without limits, and there is none other like You, oh Waheguru. 1. Your slave (devotee) sings Your praise with zest. Your devotee receives no noble advice from others, has no resolution, and has no wisdom of his own; he does only what You make him do, oh Waheguru. Pause. Your Naam is the life-sustaining ambrosia which one drinks (acquires) in the company of the Guru as delicious food for the soul. Those are the perfect devotees who sing praise of the source of all comforts (God) and attain satisfaction and contentment. 2. Those who are in Your shelter have no worries, and they are the truly wealthy and respectable devotees to whom You are kind, oh Waheguru. 3. Word Meaning: Mul(u) = filth. Praayee = of others. Eehaan = here; in this life. Dhoyee = shelter. Jumpur(i) = the city (custody) of the angel of death. 1.
Ninduk(i) = vilifier; malicious critic. Ahila = priceless. Guvaaya = wastes away. Puhouch(i) = reach; achieve. Kaahoo Baataiy = by any superfluous talk; by any means. Aagaiy = in the next world. Tthaur = shelter. Pause.
Kirt Puyya = pre-determined (based on the deeds of previous lives). Bichaara = helpless; unlucky. Bigoota = forced to suffer humiliation; discomfiture. Pookaara = cry for help. 2. Gut(i) = comfortable situation. Bhaana = Will. 3.
Tayk = support. Roorraayee = thrown in the sea of Maya; punished.
MEANING: A malicious critic wastes away his priceless human life. He is unable to achieve anything purposeful by any means and gets no shelter in the next world. Pause. Such a vilifier washes away the filth (of the sins) of others, which they had accumulated over many lives, and reaps the reward (punishment) of his own bad deeds. He enjoys no comfort in this life, and gets no support in Waheguru's Court. He is sent directly to the city (custody) of the Angel of Death. 1. But the vilifier is helpless too because his character (of vilifying others) has been given to him by Waheguru based on his deeds of previous lives, and he has to continue to follow his ignoble acts. He is forced to suffer humiliation where nobody can save him, so to whom can he cry for help? 2. It is the Will of the Master (Waheguru) that a malicious critic can have no comfortable situation anywhere. On the contrary, as the holy saints are maliciously criticized, they feel more and more blissful. 3. The holy saints have Your support, and You are their benefactor, oh Waheguru. Waheguru protects His devotees, and their vilifiers are punished, oh Nanak. 4. 2. 41.

Word Meaning: Maiyla = filthy. Dooyay Tthaur = both the shelters (worlds). Eehaan = here; in this world. Viyaapiya = overpowered. Aagaiy= in the next world. Moos(i) Moos(i) = snivel; cry silently in misery. 1. Mut(i) = thinking. Hora = different. Vermi = snake burrow. Dora = deaf. Pause. Kirt(i) = labour for living. Saar = value. Turkun(i) = criticize. Tut(u) = the basis; reality. Joag(u) = union. Ooghur(i) = exposed. Khota = impure. Dhubooa = a one-rupee silver coin. Sraafaan = goldsmiths; appraisers. Untarjaami = omniscient. 3. Koorr(i) = in falsehood. Kuput(i) = Bunch(i) = in deceit. Nimuniaada = with no sound life-span; perishable. Binus(i) = destruction. Tutkaalay = instantaneously. Sat(i) = truth; God. Smaalay = remember. 4.

MEANING: An individual, who washes himself externally (at a holy place to show his religiosity) but carries filth in his mind, loses both his shelters – of this world and of the next. Here, in this world, he is overpowered by lust, rage, and worldly attachments, while he has to snivel (cry silently in misery) in the next world. 1. But, the thinking of the devotee of Waheguru is completely different (opposite). The imposter wears religious garbs, but is deaf to Waheguru's Naam. It is like destroying a snake's burrow without killing it. (The snake-like mind of an imposter does not change by his giving an impression that he has abandoned Maya by wearing a religious garb). Pause. Such an individual quits the hard labour to earn a living, but has no idea of the worth of the worship of Waheguru either. He begins to criticize religious texts like the Vedas and the Shastras, but does not understand the reality of connecting with Waheguru. 2. But when the holy saints observe him and come to know about his real intentions, he is exposed like a counterfeit silver coin when the appraisers test it. Being omniscient, Waheguru knows everything, and nothing can be kept hidden from Him. 3. Such a hypocrite and deceitful individual, who has no sound life span, is destroyed instantaneously. Search yourself and find the truth, because I am saying only the truth, oh Nanak. 4.3.42.

Word Meaning: Oodum(u) Kert = putting in efforts; taking initiative (to recite Wahe guru's Naam). App(u) Nivaaraiy = get rid of selfishness and ego. Punch Junaa = the five demons. Vusgut(i) = under control. Ekunkaray = Waheguru. 1. Nirt(i) = dance. Rubaab = a much smaller version of a guitar or lute. Pukhaavuj = tabor. Taal = cymbal. Ghoonghroo = bells. Unhad Shabad = Divine music. Pause. Pruthmay = first. Perbodhaiy = enlightens. Paachhaiy =after that. Reejhaavaiy = gets interested in. Jaapaiy = recites (Naam). 2. Ker = hands. Churn Pkhaaraiy = washes feet (shows reverence); obeys His advice. Urp(i) = offer. Sat(i) Pdaruth = the eternal article (Waheguru's Naam). 3. Paykhaiy = sees; watches. Sherdha = with full faith; dedication; reverence. Nirt(i) = dance. Nivaaray = removes; destroys. 4.

MEANING: (Some people wear anklets with bells, and dance with musical instruments with the belief that they are pleasing their deity); but singing Your praise with (love and devotion) is the dance of Your devotees to please You, oh Waheguru. Rather than dancing to the tune of the musical instruments like the lute, tabor, cymbal, and the bells of the anklet, the devotee creates the Divine Music with the Guru's Shabad. Pause.

The mind of such a devotee gets purified just with the initiative he takes to recite Your Naam, oh Waheguru. With Your Naam at heart, he controls the five demons, and overcomes his selfishness and ego as a result of which his mind begins to dance blissfully. 1

First, he enlightens his own mind, and then he gets others to love Your Naam. He remembers Your Naam by heart, and recites aloud for others to listen, oh God. 2.

He washes the Guru's feet with his hands and bathes in the dust of the feet of the holy saints (both churn kumul and churn dust have been used frequently in Guru Granth Sahib as metaphors, as marks of respect for the Guru's Shabad). He offers his body (for service) and the mind (to listen to His Shabad) to the Guru, whereby he acquires Your Naam by His grace. 3. Whoever listens to Guru's Shabad and has His holy glimpse with full faith gets the suffering of his rebirths terminated. He stays awake (alert) against the attacks of the captivating Maya in Guru's shelter, and such dancing of his mind kills the suffering of hell (reincarnation), oh Nanak. 4.4.43

Ajaan(u) = ignorant. Jaanunhaar = omniscient (Waheguru). Chhaana = hidden. Amiyo = Amrit. Rusk(i) = with taste. Bigsaana = blooming of the mind. 4.

MEANING: My Satguru has kindly changed the direction of my thinking by virtue of which my cat-like discontentment has now become hesitant to pounce on a mouse (the attractive articles of Maya). Satguru has enabled me to replace my lion-like conceit with a goat-like humble nature, and my dog-like greedy nature has been changed into a dove-like sweet nature which feeds on grains (I have achieved contentment). Pause. My low-class savage frame of mind has been changed into a high-class Brahman (noble thinking), or as if an untouchable has been changed into a person of the highest class. My discontented nature, which always wanted more, and more, whether I was flying in the skies (had high spirits), or was depressed as if I was in the underworld, has its fire of desires completely put out (or killed). 1. My mind, which was never at home (was wandering everywhere), has finally found its home (has become peaceful) as if a building has been supported without any pillars (it does not need any support of Maya). My mind has become so beautiful (adorned with ornaments of noble qualities) as if a beautiful ornament of gold had been designed without a goldsmith, with an amazing precious stone inlaid in it. 2.
My mind, which always complained about injustice of one kind or another, has calmed down and has begun to feel that it is receiving justice now. The conceit of my mind, as a result of which I felt as if I was sitting in the chair of a judge (or had a position of power), and because of which I was always eager to bully people, seems to have been killed now. 3.
Only that individual is ignorant who claims that he knows everything, but the omniscient Waheguru is not hidden (He is present everywhere, and knows everything). My Satguru Waheguru has decorated the world with many different flowers, fruit-trees, and other vegetation (animals and vegetation of different kinds). Every tree and plant in this world-orchard is flourishing, and none is without fruit (every living being is playing its role and producing whatever it is supposed to produce). 3. There are worries when one lives in a family, and those so-called holy men who renounce the world are full of ego. Similarly, the performance of religious rituals is another network of worldly bonds and worries about which rituals are sinful and which are in accordance with religious dictates. 3. By the benevolence of Waheguru, a devotee, who is able to control his mind (sensual pleasures) in the shelter of the Guru, swims across the sea of Maya, oh Nanak. 4.
