All human beings are the friends of the same dear Husband (Waheguru), but only that human bride will be good (worthy) and noble who is liked and approved by Him. With Guru's grace, I searched for Waheguru within me (not in the forests) and found Him there, oh Nanak. 2.3.

Now that I am in Your shelter, it is up to You, whether You want to protect me (from the attacks of Maya) or You want to kill me spiritually by rejecting me (not providing Your shelter), oh Waheguru. Pause. I have burned away (rejected completely) the praise of people for my smartness; now, it is up to them whether they call it a good or a bad choice on my part. I have moulded my body and my mind in Waheguru's love (and have started to obey His Huqam). 1. The kind Waheguru protects His devotees who come to His shelter (obey His Huqam). Visibly, I have a label of a religious person (my attire is religious), but I am a savage inside, and bear enmity with others for no good reason. I, Nanak, have come to Your shelter; please protect me in whatever way You please, oh Waheguru. 2.5.

They are like a person without a guru who talks a lot but is considered a defile in Waheguru's Court. 1.

One should recite Waheguru's Naam all the time, whereby his mind will be enlightened with His benevolence. Pause. It is only Waheguru which is present in everybody's heart and outside. Waheguru is omnipresent and is visible everywhere (in the form of His nature). 1. Countless of Your servants (devotees), and the hermits sing Your praise, but they cannot find Your limits anywhere, oh Waheguru.

The Lord is the source of all comforts and is the destroyer of all ills (troubles); I wish to offer my life to Him all the time, oh Nanak. 2.1.

MEANING: Whatever has to happen, is happening in the world, oh my mother. Waheguru is mixed uniformly with (is present in) His creation, and there is gain somewhere, and loss somewhere else (as per the thinking of human beings). Pause. Joy and the enjoyment of sensual pleasures are thriving somewhere, while people are grief-stricken at some other places; nobody knows when they will laugh or cry. Somewhere, people are full of filth of conceit, and somewhere else, people are washing away the filth of their immoral deeds in the shelter of the Guru. 1. Nobody can obliterate the creation of Waheguru; no such power exists anywhere else. I will consider it all well and good for myself to obey His Huqam, and shall not use any words of disobedience. Please do not be forgotten from my heart, even for a small moment, oh dear Waheguru; I will be (spiritually) dead if I forget you. 1. My omnipresent Waheguru is the source of all comforts, and He tolerates (forgives) my extreme ignorance. I have no virtue, am ugly (have bad qualities), and do not belong to a noble clan, but my Lord-Husband is always blissful, oh Nanak. 2.3.

When one sings Waheguru's praise, he comes to realize the principle of nature that, no matter where a living being is born, it never lives forever, and eventually it is absorbed into the same Power (Waheguru) that created it. 1. When Waheguru becomes kind to someone, all his worries and worldly fears are destroyed, and all comforts come to reside (take root) in his heart. Ever since the beginning of the world, and before the beginning of the eons, there have been Your devotees, and You have been their guard to protect them from all vices, oh Waheguru. I always long for the dust of the feet of the devotees of Waheguru (serve them with reverence), which is the provider (source of everything) for all, oh Nanak. 2.20.

The only everlasting place is Guru's shelter (because you get connected with the immortal Waheguru there); my mind longs for the dust of the Feet of the holy men (Guru) (to serve Him). 1. The sea of Maya (of worldly attractions) is extremely difficult to swim across, but I do not have any virtue, nor do I know of any technique or scheme to swim across; but, when I came to the shelter of the Guru, all my evil desires were eradicated, oh Nanak. 2.2.28.

At last, I, a humble devotee, have come to the shelter of the Lord and His holy saints. I am lucky to connect with the hypnotizing Waheguru, as a result of which my mind has blossomed and become peaceful, oh Nanak. 2.3.29.

By singing His praise, not only have I successfully travelled through the dense forest of sensual pleasures (swam across the sea of Maya), but I have also been able to ferry my associates across too. 1. Waheguru's lotus-like Feet have (His Naam has) been embedded in my heart, and now I recite it with every breath and every bite. I have sought the shelter of Waheguru, and I wish to sacrifice my life for Him again, and again, oh Nanak. 2.4.30.

The technique is to take shelter of the Guru, without which you will not be able to reach Waheguru's Door (get connected with Him).
