NOTE: It is the same holy Shabad as Paurri number 27 in Jap(u) Ji with very minor changes in spellings of some words with no change in the meaning as a whole. So, for more detail, see the meaning of that Paurri.

Word Meaning: Dur(u) = door; entrance. Smaalay = looks after. vaajay Naad = music produced by musical instruments. vaavanhaaray = musicians. Raag Purie = varieties of music. Baisunter(u) = fire. Raja Dherm(u) = Dhermraj = Angel of justice.
Suvaaray = decorated. Jutee = celibate. Sutee = with high moral character. Suntokhi = content. Veer Kraaray. = gallants. Mohiniyaan = mind-captivating; pretty. Muchh = this world. Pyaalay = worlds beneath the earth. Ruttan = jewels; noble qualities. Khaani chaaray = the four sources of production of life (live birth, eggs, vegetation, from air under ripe conditions). Khund, Mundal Verbhunda = parts of universe. Ruttay = imbued. Ruchna = creation. Rungi Rungi Bhaanti = of different kinds.
MEANING: (Guru Nanak says), Oh Waheguru! People wonder what kind of entrance Your Residence has, and what kind of Residence You reside in, where You look after Your whole Creation. Even though I am unable to describe the exact nature of Your Residence, You are omnipresent, and there are countless types of musical instruments, and countless musicians who play on them to produce many different types of lilting tunes (naad). There are many different types of lyrics and their subcategories (purees), and countless singers to sing them. (The gods of) air, water, and fire all sing Your praise, and so does the Angel of justice on Your doorsteps. Chit(u) and Goopt(u), who are believed to keep written records of the deeds of humans, sing Your Praise with their recordings being analyzed by Dherm Raj, the Angel of justice at Your door. Many Shivas, and many Brahmas, etc., and many Parbatis sing Your praise, as a result of which, they are decorated (find respect) in Your Court. Sitting on their thrones, many Indras (Ind), along with other gods, also sing Your praise at Your door. The Sidh yogis sing Your praise in their meditation, and the holy men (sadh) sing by pondering on Your magnanimity. The celibate, men with high character, and the content (santokhi), the gallant, all sing Your praise. In all eons (yugs), the learned (pundits), the great sages (rukheesur), and the Vedas, sing Your praise. Even the beautiful fairies of the paradise, of the earth (muchh) and of the underworld (payaal), having charming beauties, sing Your praise. Gods of jewels (Kuber) created by You, sing Your praise, and so do the sixty-eight holy places believed to be made holy by the gods. The powerful valiant (jodh) and the intrepid (maha bal soora), sing Your praise, and so do the living beings from all the four sources (mammals, eggs, vegetation, and the ones which grow under optimum conditions) of reproduction. The skies, the galaxies, and the whole universe, supported by You, sing Your praise. Only those devotees sing Your Praise (are approved by You) whom You like, and who are imbued with Your affection, and enjoy singing it. I do not know, and cannot imagine, how many more sing Your praise. Only the Master, Waheguru, is eternal (Such Sahib Saacha) and so is His magnanimity, or justice (naayee). The Creator has always existed, will exist in future, and will never go away (will live forever). He has created the universe with countless varieties of different living beings and bodies, and has created attractions of different types (Maya) for them. He enjoys and looks after His Creation as He pleases. He will do whatever He chooses to do, and nobody has the power to suggest any modifications (huqam na kerna jaayee).
(Guru Nanak Sahib advises) That rather than wasting time and energy to find the secrets and the limits (because nobody will ever be able to do so) of Waheguru, who is the real Emperor of emperors, the man should simply sing His praise and obey His Will (rajaayee). 27.

Nanak Sach(u) svaarunharaa. 4.2.

Word Meaning: Deettha = on seeing. Keemut(i) = value. Smaayay = absorbed. 1 Gehir = deep. Ghumbeera = never changing (without any emotion). Gooni Guheera = source of noble qualities. Kay vudd = how large. Cheera = Huqam(u); creatioin.

Ruhaou= pause.

Soorteen = meditators. Soort(i) = meditated (to determine the secrets of God). Keemut(i) = evaluators. Keemut(i) = value (of the size) Giyani = scholars. Dhiyani = concentrators. Gur Gur Haayee = recognized gurus. Til(u) = sesame seed (extremely small). Vudiyaayee = greatness. 2. Sut = high moral character, noble deeds. Tup = physical suffering (to please some god). Sidhaan Poorkhaan = of the Sidh yogis. Kerm(i) = kindness. Tthaak(u) ruhayeeyan = kept restrained. 3.

Vaychaara = poor; unable; helpless. Bhundaara = treasures. Chaara = compete.

Sach(u) = God; Waheguru. Svaarunhaara= decorator; refiner.

MEANING: After hearing from different sources, everybody says that Waheguru (God's creation) It is very large. If someone were actually able to see Him (His creation), how large would he find Him!! Nobody could actually evaluate (find the size) of His creation, and thus nobody can describe His vastness. Those who try get simply absorbed in You (are captivated by and lost in your magnanimity, and still cannot find any limits), oh Waheguru! 1.

Your splendour is unfathomable. You are a treasure of all good qualities and never change; nobody knows how large Your creation is, oh, my great Master! Pause. All the meditators meditated (to find Your ends), and all the evaluators tried to evaluate You, and find your limits (but to no avail). The scholars, the people with deep concentrations, and the recognized gurus tried, but could not describe even a little amount of Your greatness. 2.

All the noble deeds, all sorts of self-afflicted suffering to please You, and other religious rituals (do not result in any success to find Your limits). All good qualities, including the glory (due to limited supernatural powers) of the Sidh yogis, come from You, by Your kindness. If You do not want someone to have those, they will stay undelivered. 3.

You are the treasure of all the praiseworthy qualities, oh Waheguru! And nobody can describe them. Everybody is helpless. If you impart Your good qualities to someone, nobody can match him. Only You have the ability to adorn individuals (of Your choice with noble qualities), oh Nanak. 4.2.

(PAGE 10): Jin(i) din kur(i) kaiy keetee raat(i). Khusm(u) visareh(i) tay kumjaat(i). Nanak naavaiy baajh snaat(i). 4.3.

Word meaning: Visraiy = on forgetting. Bhookh = appetite; urge; desire. Oot(u) = bhookhaiy = because of that urge. Dookh = discomforts. 1

Visraiy = lose from memory. Saache Sahib(u) = (union with) the True Master.

Saachaiy Naayay= by (reciting) the True NaaM. Pause.

Til(u) = (the size of a) sesame seed. Aakh(i) tthukkay = exhausted describing. Keemut(i) = value. Ghaat(i) = loss (in greatness). 2

Soag(u) = mourning (causing grief). Chookaiy = miss (discontinue). Bhoag(u) = food. Goon(u) = good quality; ability. Ehou = (only in) Waheguru. Hoar(i) nahi koyay = nobody else. 3

Jay vudd = as large (great). Tay vudd = the same size. Daat(i) = largesse.

Khusm(u) = Master. Visareh(i) = forget. Kumjaat = Snaat(i) = low caste, ignoble. 4.

MEANING: Even though it is very hard to recite the True (Waheguru's) Naam (with full concentration and dedication), I am spiritually alive only when I recite Waheguru's Naam, and experience spiritual death when I forget it. I wish that I experienced the appetite (strong desire) for Waheguru's Naam all the time, because this appetite eats away (kills) all the discomforts. 1.

How can I (I cannot afford to) forget the True Naam of Waheguru, oh my mother! The True Master can be realized only by reciting His Naam (singing His praise). Pause.

Many people have exhausted themselves in evaluating (describing) the splendour of God, but they have not been able to describe even a small part of Him (have been badly unsuccessful). Even if everybody joined together to describe Him, there will be no change in Him – He will become neither bigger nor smaller. 2.

The Master never dies, and thus does not cause any grief to anyone. He never stops being the provider. Only He has this unique ability; nobody else will ever have it. 3.

His largesse is as great as He Himself is. (It is His kindness) that He has created nights after days. Anybody who forgets such a benevolent Master is ignoble. Also ignoble is the person who does not recite His Name (sing His praise), oh Nanak. 4.3.

Word Meaning: Hur(i) kay Jun = devotee. Sat Purkha = Manifestation of God (Satgur). Binou = humble request. Keeray Kirm = worms (filthy; engrossed in Maya). Shernaayee = shelter; refuge. Kur(i) Duyya = be kind. Naam(u) purgaas(i) = enlighten with Naam. 1 Meet = friend. Gurmut(i) = advice (teachings) of the Guru. Praan sukhaayee = friend (supporter) of life. Hur(i) keerut(i) = praise of God. Rehras(i) = prayer; routine. Pause. Vudbgaag = good fortune. Sherdhaa = (respectful) wish. Piyaas = thirst (longing). Triptaaseh(i) = satisfied. 2
Rus(u) = (sweet) taste. Tay = those. Bhag-heen = unlucky. Jum paas(i) = prisoner of the agent of death. Dhrig(u) = condemnable. Jeevaas(i) = future life. 3.
Mustuk(i) = on the forehead (luck). Likhiya = written. Dhunn(u) = great. 4.

MEANING: Oh, the devotee of God, Satguru - the manifestation of Waheguru – I have a humble request to make. We are like worms (who lead a filthy life), and seek your refuge. Please, be kind and enlighten our hearts with Waheguru's Naam. 1.
Please enlighten my mind with Waheguru's Naam, oh my friend, Satguru. The Naam is the support of my life, but can be realized only by the Guru's Shabad (advice). I pray to You, that singing praise of Waheguru becomes my daily routine. Pause.
Those devotees are fortunate who have the thirst (longing) and wish for Waheguru (His Naam). They feel content only when they are enlightened with noble qualities and recite Waheguru's Naam in the company of the holy men. 2.
On the other hand, those who have not enjoyed the taste of Waheguru's Naam are very unlucky. Such people become the subjects of the agent of death. Their present and future lives are condemnable who do not take refuge in Satguru. 3.

Only those people seek Satguru's refuge and enjoy His company who have their fortune prewritten on their foreheads (are predestined) by Waheguru. The company of the holy men (Satguru) is great, in which an individual can enjoy the taste of Waheguru's Naam. (Guru) Nanak says that He, too, seeks such company where His mind is enlightened. 4.4.

Raag Goojri Mehla 5: Kaahay ray mun chitveh(i) oodum(u), ja aahur(i) Hur(i) Jeeo puriya. Saiyl puththur meh(i) junt oopaayay, ta ka rijuk(u) aagaiy kur(i) dhuriya. 1. Mayray Madho Ji, Satsungut(i) milay s(i) turiya. Gur persad(i) Perm pud(u) paaya, sookay kaasht huriya. 1. Ruhaou. Junun(i), pita, loak, soot, bunita, koyay na kis kee dhuriya. Sir(i), sir(i) rijuk(u) sumbaahay Tthaakur, kaahay mun bhou kuriya. 2. Oodaiy, ood(i) aavaiy saiy koasaan, tis(u) paachhaiy buchray chhuriya. Jun Nanak bul(i), bul(i), sud bul(i) jaayiyaiy, Tayra unt(u) na paaravuriya. 4.5.

Word Meaning: Chitveh(i) Oodum = think about putting in effort; worry about. Aahur(i) = (has the) responsibility. Saiyl = Puththur = rocks. Junt = living beings.
Rijuk(u) = food. Aagaiy = before. Dhuriya = placed; arranged. 1.
Madho = God. S(i) = that. Turiya = salvaged. Perm Pud(u) = spiritual state above Maya. Sookay Kaasht = dry wood; dead trees. Huriya = (became) green; came to life. Pause. Junun(i) = mother. Loak = people; daughtes (because they leave their parents' home and become members of other's family). Soot = sons. Bunita = wife. Dhuriya = support; dependence. Sir(i) Sir(i) = everybody. Sumbaahay = delivers. Rijuk = food; necessities of life. Kaahay = why. Bhuou = afraid of. 2. Oodaiy = (Koonj) flies. Saiy = hundreds. Koas = a unit of length (1 koas = 2.2 km). Pachhaiy Chhuriya = leaves behind. Buchray = young ones. Choogaavaiy = pick food. Simrun = remember. 3.
Nidhaan = trasures. Dus Usht = ten and eight = 18. Siddhaan = supernatural powers. Ker = hands. Tul = palms. Bul(i) = sacrifice life. Paaravuriya = measure; beyond limits. 4.

NOTE: Koonj is a white bird which visits India from Russia in the winter months and returns in the summer. It flies for several hundred km, leaving her young ones behind, with no one to feed them. It is believed that when she picks food, she keeps her young ones in mind, and that is how they are fed by nature.

MEANING: Why should you worry about your food when Waheguru has that in His mind as His innate responsibility, oh man? He has created life even in the rocks (where there is no exit or entrance), and has supplied food even before life began there. 1.
(The more important thing for the man is to get detached from Maya, and unite with Waheguru). Waheguru salvages the individual who attends the holy congregation of Satguru (and acts on His Advice). There, the devotee attains the spiritual level above Maya by the grace of the Guru, and his spiritually dead mind comes to life. Pause. Why should you be afraid of anything (worry about food, etc.) when Waheguru provides food (and other necessities of life to everybody? You commit many immoral acts to earn wealth for your relatives), but nobody will be able to protect you from punishment for your immoral deeds in Waheguru's Court), be it your mother, father, daughter, son, or wife. 2. Look, the koonj travels several hundred km and leaves her young ones behind who have nobody to feed them. But when the koonj picks food, she keeps her young ones in mind. (This is a wonder of Waheguru that the food that the koonj picks, is fed to the young ones)! 3.

All the treasures and the 18 supernatural powers lie in the palms of Waheguru (which He can gift to anyone). I am a slave of Waheguru, and am always ready to sacrifice my life for Him. His wonders can never be known, oh Nanak. 4.5.
